ANNOUNCE OPENING PROGRAM OF SHOW

GET NO MONEY IN HOLD-UP AT HOTEL BOGGS

Frank Fullen, Night Clerk, Accosted By Two Young Men Who Get Away in Car

Two young men both appearing to be about 20 years of age, unsuccessfully at the point of revolvers held up Frank Fullen night clerk at the Boggs hotel late Sunday and after searching the safe and other possible places for money, scampered out the front door and into an automobile making a getaway.

Fullen was reading behind the counter when the two men appeared. He thought they were customers and stepped up to the counter to ask the men to sign their names on the hotel register. When he looked toward the men he gazed straight into the muzzles of two revolvers which Fullen says resembled cannons to him.

He told the men to help themselves. They went through all the drawers and everything else but found no money.

Immediately after they had gone Fullen notified police but after a careful check of the town and roads leading away no trace was found.

DAVID MARION TAKEN SUNDAY

Influenza Proves Fatal To Aged Farmer at Home of Son Near Ashville.

David Francis Marion, 83, a farmer, died at the home of his son, Ralph Marion, four miles northeast of Ashville, Sunday, at 1:30 p. m. from influenza.

Mr. Marion, a native of Vinton-co was the son of Francis and Emily Smith Marion.

His wife, who was Miss Route, died many years ago.

He is survived by three sons,
Ralph, James and Harold of St.
Paul, Ohio, and Mrs. Homer Peters also of St. Paul. One sister, Mrs. Jacob Justus of Five Points and 16 grandchildren also survive.

Shrt funeral services will be held Wednesday at the home at 9:30 and at the Commercial Point Presbyterian church at 10:30 with Rev. Wolfe of Lithopolis officiating. Funeral in charge of A. J.
Hott of Commercial Point will be in Commercial Point cemetery.

NEED MORE KIDDIES

Mrs. Mary G. Morris, chairman of the Baby Parade announces that there will have to be at least six entries made in each division before an award can be made. She particularly urges that more colored babies be entered.

COGNOVIT NOTE

A cognovit judgment in the sum of $175.37 was returned in favor of Harry Clifton against Frank L.
Johnson, Circleville in common pleas court Monday.

MERCHANTS NOTICE!

Many of the Circleville Merchants were solicited Monday by so-called merchant-disers who have jewelry, fountain pens, and what not to sell during the Pumpkin Show.
These men operate in merchants' doorways only after business hours if it isn't possible to buy this space during the day time.

Local merchants should cooperate with the Pumpkin Show Society in such matters and refer these men to E. C.
Friece, who has charge of locating concessions. If their proposition is worthy of being granted a location they can very easily get it, but in most instances they have been turned down by the Society and then go out to buy doorways.

All merchants should refuse to sell doorway space to such men and refer them to the Pumpkin Show Society.

ARRANGE PUMPKIN EXHIBIT

The above men are in a large way responsible for the success of Circleville's 26th Annual Pumpkin Show which gets under way in all its glory Wednesday and continues through Saturday night.

Mayor B. T. Hedges through his official capacity is president of the Show and therefore the power behind the throne.

Squire E. C. Friece is the veteran secretary of the annual affair.
Friece has been serving for several years as secretary and knows the ins and outs of the big event.

Several Persons In Charge of Same Show Departments Now As In 1904

Prizes Are Greatly Changed
With Many 1904 Classes Being Antique Now.

When the 26th annual Pumpkin
Show of Circleville opens next Wednesday there will be several of the prominent residents of the city acting on committees who were in charge of like departments in 1904.
The first show started with a mere street fair on W. Main-st, and was sponsored by merchants in that business section.

Many of the events of importance then have been abandoned for more modern attractions.
Among the contests at the first shows were pie-eating contests, egg race, wheelbarrow race, tug-of-war, flour race, apple-snatch and barrel and shoe race. John S.
Bailey, Charles Lowe and E. M.
Stout were the judges.

The cake and candy displays were at Joseph's store and Henry Joseph now has charge of these exhibits. George F. Grand-Girard had charge of the pumpkins and squashes. F. L. Fickard was superintendent of the corn exhibit.
Roy McMullen looked after the oats and wheat. G. W. Gregg, G.
R. Curl and W. H. Kirkendall were the judges.

In the poultry department Mayor
G. R. Haswell, E. E. Spence and L. T. Shaner were the judges. The department in which the horses and mules were shown were in charge of C. K. Howard.

Interesting are the names of those who won prizes in the first big show. Among these were:
Best 12 ears yellow corn, Cary
Brown; Best 1-2 bushel oats, John Mast; first prize in guineas, Mrs.
George Try; first prize horses and mules, Samuel Holliday.

Fifteen years later, the annual Pumpkin Show that had grown to occupy the entire business section, drew a crowd of more than 50,000 visitors. Among the features was the horse show. In class A, the lady rider winners were Miss Merle Roberts, Misses Fairy Wolfe, Hazel Miller and Miss Edna Miller. In class B, the men drivers who won prizes were C. E. Roof, D. E.
Phillips, and John Stout. In an open to the state driver contest,
Harry Short, W. H. Albaugh and Bernard Young, all Circleville entrants, were the winners. In class D, lady drivers who won prizes were Miss Ethel Brown, Miss Eleanor Groce and Miss Nelle Roberts.

In the fancy work department, the change in popular work is noted. Miss Alice Lowe won first prize with a handmade pin cushion. Prizes were awarded for the best handmade corset cover. This year there might be a prize awarded for any corset cover, as an an-

LONG ILLNESS FATAL TO MRS OLLIE DOWDEN

Complications Takes Lifelong County Resident Early Monday.

Following an illness since June,
Mrs. Ollie Jane Dowden, 53, died Monday at 6:20 a. m. of complications at her home in Wayne-twp
after apparently being on the road to recovery. She was the wife of Mack Dowden and the mother of Durward Dowden, teller in the Second National bank.

Mrs. Dowden was born Oct. 15, 1876 in Hallsville, O., and was the daughter of Jonathan and Malinda Routt Pontius. She had been a resident of Pickaway-co practically all of her life.

On May 8, 1901, she was united in marriage to Mack Dowden and to this union four children were born, who with the husband survive. They are Durward Dudley Dowden, Jonathan Austin Dowden, Eula Malinda Dowden and Elizabeth Ellen Ruggles Dowden, all at home.

Her father, and a sister, Miss Gertrude Pontius of Wayne-twp
and another sister, Mrs. Flora Purdum of Columbus also survive.

Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday at 2:30 p. m., at the home by Dr. G. J. Troutman and Rev. George L. Troutman of the Trinity Lutheran church of Circleville, of which Mrs. Dowden was a member. Burial will be in Forest cemetery in charge of the W. H. Albaugh Co.

HOLD MAN ON BOOZE CHARGE

Burt Dale, Portsmouth, Arrested After Running Over Bank With Car.

Burt Dale, Portsmouth is being held in the county jail under a charge of possessing intoxicating liquor following his arrest Sunday by Deputies Ward, and Fissell when one pint of whiskey was found on him.

Dale had driven his car off the road and was sitting in the ditch when the officers arrived.

The empty pint bottle and another empty one-half pint bottle were also found.

FORMER LOCAL WOMAN CALLED

Mrs. Catherine Bender, Sister
To Mrs. Adam Goldhart, Dies In Athens.

Mrs. Catherine Knapp Bender,
80, widow of the late Frederick Bender, former Circleville resident, died at Athens, at 2:30 p. m., Sunday after two weeks illness with pneumonia.

She was a daughter of the late Joseph Knapp and is survived by a son, Joseph of the U. S. Navy; three sisters, Mrs. Adam Gold-hart, Circleville; Mrs. Gus Mullen, Columbus; Mrs. Eva Staler, Waverly, and one brother, John Knapp, North Manchester, Ind.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m., Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Adam Goldhart, S. Scioto-st to which place the body will be brought. Burial will be made in Forest cemetery under direction of the Mader and Ebert Funeral home with Rev. G. J. Troutman officiating.

ATHLETICS WIN

Philadelphia Athletics won the world's series from Chicago today with three runs in the ninth inning after they had trailed through eight innings.

Mule Haas' home run with one on gave the A's a tie and Bing Miller's single scored Al Simmons with the winning run.

Howard Ehmke was the Mack Pitcher while Malone hurled for the Cubs.

SUGAR BEET INDUSTRY GROWS

Upper picture shows a machine for loading sugar beets into cars ready for action at a railway station in the Belle Fourche district of South Dakota. Lower picture is of farmers in the same district busy moving their sugar beet crops. There is a growing activity in the sugar beet industry and it has been placed on a profitable basis for the farmer.

Each Pumpkin Show Brings Many Former Residents To Old Haunts

Ward Huston, Chicago, Returns To Scenes of Childhood to Visit Friends

In February, 19, 1810, the county of Pickaway was designated by act of the General Assembly, and during the Pumpkin Show of 1910
the county seat of Pickaway-co, celebrated this event in an elaborate manner.

While the Pumpkin Show was practically in its infancy at this time many of the residents will remember with pride the many events that marked this celebration. In fact this year's show was the outstanding event of the season in the State. Old residents of the United States, many of whom had not been back since their departure many years before.
Since that time the annual Pumpkin Show has been known as a homecoming event and every year brings back faces familiar to a stay-at-home residents and a renewing of old acquaintances that is good for the heart.

A few days prior to the 26th annual show the Herald office was visited by Ward Huston of Chicago, Ill., a descendant of one of the early residents of Circleville.
Mr. Huston said that he had celebrated his 49th birthday anniversary a few days previous to his visit to Circleville and that this was his first glimpse of the town which he had heard tales and incidents from his grandfather as well as his father ever since his boyhood. He recalls long evenings spent around the family hearth as a boy in Monticello, Ill. when his illustrious grandfather, the late Thomas Huston, who was at that time judge of the common pleas court at that city, would tell of his early life in Circleville.

It was while still a child that Mr. Huston decided that he would some day visit the haunts of which he was familiar because of the touching descriptions given him of them. His father, Harvey Huston, who died in 1895, was a native of Circleville going to Monticello with his parents when he was ten years of age.

According to certain older residents of the city Thomas Huston and his brothers, Andrew and Johnathan, owned a large tract of land in the southern part of town near the present city limits. The great grandparents of Mr.
Huston, Mr. and Mrs. John Huston, died in Circleville and are buried in the old cemetery located on E. High-st.

Thomas Huston married Miss Mary Barr also a native of Circleville and they were the parents of five children, John, Robert, Harvey, Jane and Mary.

Andrew Huston's wife was Miss Christena Renick, whose family has always been outstanding among the residents of Pickaway-
co. They had one son, Renick Huston, who enlisted in the Civil war from Pickaway-co and died while serving his country as a first lieutenant of infantry.

In 1845 Thomas Huston and his brother, Andrew Huston bought 80 acres of ground in Chicago near the site of what is now the White City Amusement Park.

Circleville would do well to have more public spirited residents of the same calibre as Thomas Huston. History tells of many incidents where he took an active part in the community life. One of his achievements which does not appear so meritorious to many of the present day was the part he took in squaring the circle or particularly the southeast section of it.

He also was instrumental in building the levee in the south end of the town and a history by Miss May Lowe of the early residents of Circleville who were members of St. Joseph's congregation tells how Thomas Huston induced many of the Irish of that denomination

MANSFIELDERS HELD IN JAIL

Charged With Drunkenness and Disorderly Conduct Following Accident.

Robert Richardson, Harry Yohn, Elmer Norris and Marie Richardson, all of Mansfield, O., are being held in the county jail pending a hearing on a charge of intoxication and disorderly conduct filed against them late Sunday when they were alleged to have forced the Chrysler car driven by Earl Street, Ross-co from the road.

After Street's car had been forced from the road Robert Richardson is also alleged to have struck Street. Street had two small children in his car at the time of the accident.

Deputy Sheriffs Miller Fis-sell and John Ward were called to the scene of accident n the Dawson pike at 6 p. m. and placed the four Mansfield persons under arrest.

GIVES STIFF FINE ON DRUNK CHARGE

BAND TO OPEN FESTIVITIES AT PUBLIC SQUARE

Chimes, Talks and Quartet To Aid In Opening Exercises Wednesday.

With all preparations made for Circleville's and Pickaway-county's 26th Annual Pumpkin Show which gets under way Wednesday, workmen were busy Monday constructing booths in front of nearly every business place in the city.

Some booths when finished will just about cover the entire street, while others are not so large. Anyway the sound of hammers was very much in evidence early Monday and in the evening that rat-atat was still to be heard, even until darkness forced an end of activity.

All vendors who will sell their wares through the four big days, entertainers, performers, and crowds of men looking for chances to do odd jobs arrived in town early Monday for a stay of one full week.

gram will get under way Wednesday at 6:45 p. m., when the Yel-lowbud band gathers at the corner of Main and Court-sts. The band will march to the court house plaza where a short program will be put on.

Carl Palm will open the program with several selections on his chimes.

The program will be in charge of Mayor Ben T. Hedges who will deliver a few words then introduce E. S. Neuding who will give a short talk.

A local minister, not yet named,
will offer a prayer.

The B. P. O. Elks Lodge 77 double quartet will sing several selections previous to a talk by M. C. Warren, county superintendent of schools.

Several chimes selections will be played by Carl Palm and Circleville's Pumpkin Show will be opened.

DROVE WHILE DRUNK, FINED

Charles Grubb, Wayne-Twp.,
Pleads Guilty Before Judge
Brown, Monday.

Charles Grubb, Wayne-twp was fined $100 and costs by Probate Judge E. A. Brown, on a charge of operating an automobile while intoxicated and his drivers license was revoked for six months.

He paid $50 of the fine and gave bond for the remainder and the costs.

Grubb was arrested Sunday in the Island road by Deputy Sheriff Miller Fissell after he had driven his car into a fence.

Two children were in Grubb's car at the time of his arrest.

other time except during Pumpkin Show week.

The Herald is printed in three eight-page sections which make a 24-page edition.

'I COULDN'T CALL MY LIFE MY OWN,' SAYS COLUMBUS MAN

But Spinago Showed Mr. Michael Riley the Way To Health and Happiness.

Twenty years of suffering from indigestion, constipation, anemia and rheumatism and then health and happiness almost overnight! That is the story of Mr. Michael Riley who resides at 219 N. High St., Columbus. And what was the magic which dispelled this misery? What miracle took Mr. Riley off the invalid list and gave him a new lease on life? No magic, no miracle; it was simply a practical new medicine, Spinago. Because Spinago is a compound consisting of more than a score of well known and medically valuable roots, herbs and barks, each one performing its work both independently and in co-operation with the others, it can perform feats which seem almost like miracles. Because Spinago, the most important ingredient of Spinago, is the one food almost universally prescribed in diets for practically every ailment, this super-tonic cannot be repulsed by stubborn diseases.

MICHAEL RILEY.

Mr. Riley's case is not unusual. Thousands of others are now happy in the knowledge that stomach, liver and bowel complaints simply cannot withstand the powerful action of this medicine. That indigestion, constipation, dyspepsia, rheumatism and neuritis quickly disappear when Spinago gets to work. That the blood is purified and enriched, the body given new pep and energy and brought back to normal weight by the use of this tonic of tonics.

"During twenty years of suffering from indigestion, constipation and rheumatism I could not call my life my own," says Mr. Riley. Pain and misery took all the joy out of living for me. I could eat nothing without fear of suffering. My appetite dwindled away and I lost weight day by day. Rheumatism rendered my arms and legs practically useless and sharp pains tortured me most of the time.

"I was not idle during this time. I left no stone unturned to regain my health. One medicine after another I tried with no success. I grew daily more discouraged and was about to give up hope when I heard of Spinago. This medicine marked the turning point in my life, for after three bottles all my troubles vanished. No more indigestion or constipation, no more rheumatism or pains arising from any of these ailments. I have plenty of pep and energy, have the free use of my limbs, enjoy a good hearty appetite and am gaining weight every day. What more could any man ask?"

Crowds are daily thronging the Mykrantz Pharmacy, 107 N. Court St., where Spinago is sold and guaranteed. Spinago is also sold by all other good drug stores in this vicinity.—Adv.

MacDonald Meets the President

J. Ramsay MacDonald, Britain's Prime Minister, chatting with President Hoover on the steps of the Executive Mansion shortly after MacDonald met the Chief Executive for the first time.

THEATRES

The time honored lover triangle has been displaced by a novel four-sided domestic tangle in "Paris Bound," a sophisticated Pathe dialogue drama of marriage which will hold the featured place at the Met theatre.

Ann Harding and Frederic March, both noted Broadway players, are seen as the young married couple upon whose adventures the story is based. Carmelita Geraghty and Leslie Fenton appear in the roles of the two who, in their separate orbits are responsible for the problems which confront the wedded lovers, as well as the solutions at which they ultimately arrive.

Other important roles in "Paris Bound" which was directed by Edward Griffith are filled by Ilka Chase, Juliette Crosby, Hal Cooley, George Irving and Charlotte Walker.

Some of the finest Arabian horses in Western America appear in "The Desert Song," the lavishly produced Warner Bros. Vitaphone talking picture which marks the first transference of an opera in its entirety to the motion picture screen.

California was searched for horses of unusual qualities to be utilized in the picture as mounts for John Boles, as the Red Shadow, and for the members of his picturesque Riff followers. Scenes showing the entire troop riding madly across the Moroccan desert are particularly inspiring, and furnish some of the most stirring moments of this great musical play. Other magnificent charges are used as mounts for the French cavalry which penetrates the mountains in search of the Red Shadow and his band.

Both the brogue and the blarney of Erin are included in Colleen Moore's all-talking First National Vitaphone picture, "Smiling Irish Eyes" which has been secured by the Cliftona theatre.

The list of extra players appearing in large scenes of this production was made up almost entirely of Murphys, Dugans, Kellys, Callahans, O'Briens, O'Connors and names equally as famous on the Emerald Isle.

Not only do they enrich the conversational background with soft syllables and colloquial expressions so common in the speech of the Irish, but their appearances are suitable for a picture with the Old Sod as its principal locale.

A Promise

Although she had never been married at all her views on marriage were very strict. So, of course she had to call on the young divorcee and tell her so.

Frankness was one of the virtues which she prided herself, so the conversation had not progressed far before she declared to the young bride, "Pardon my saying so, but don't you think you might have waited more than a month after your divorce to marry your second husband?"

"Oh, do you really think so?" replied the bride, "I'll make it a point to wait longer next time."

Midget Kangaroos

Australia has more than 100 varieties of animals in which the mother carries her young in a pouch on her stomach, says James T. Nichols in Successful Farming Magazine.

"The most noted of all these animals is the kangaroo," he writes, "of which there are a half hundred varieties. Some kangaroos are small as a rat and others are so large that when standing on their toes they are taller than a man. Although a kangaroo is a hardy animal, at birth it is very small, often but little larger than a mouse."

Life's Endeavor

I expect to pass through this world but once. Any good thing, therefore, that I can do, or any kindness that I can show to any fellow-being, let me do it now. Let me not defer or neglect it, for I shall not pass this way again.—Author Unknown.

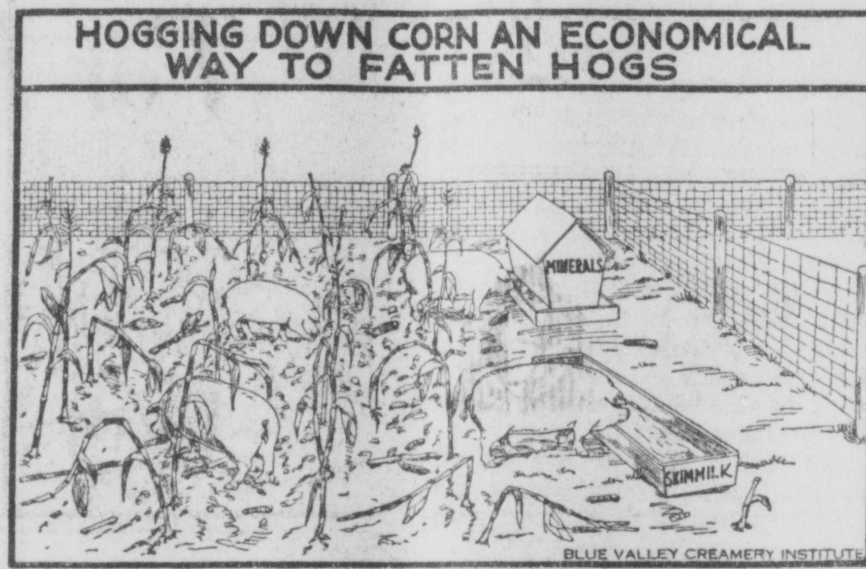

"Hogging Down" Good Farm Practice

One of the best and most economical ways to fatten hogs for the early fall market is to turn them into a cornfield to hog it down, says the Blue Valley Creamery Institute. Hogging down corn is a practical and profitable practice and is becoming more popular each year. It saves the labor of harvesting and feeding corn and handling manure. It also builds up soil fertility because all of the manure is scattered evenly on the land. In addition to this, hogs make fully as big, if not better, gains by hogging down corn as are possible under any other method of fattening.

For best results a supplementary feed crop such as soybeans grown right in the corn and minerals fed in a self-feeder is often recommended. Some farmers prefer to grow soybeans, alfalfa, rape or other forage crops alone alongside the corn field so that the pigs may always have free access to both. On the other hand, fine results have also been obtained by turning the hogs into corn alone and giving them the supplementary feeds they require in the form of skim milk and minerals. On farms where cows are milked this latter method is likely to be the most profitable. If there is not enough skim milk to go around, tankage in a self feeder will help supply the necessary proteins needed for making a good fattening and growing ration for spring pigs. Skim milk is usually fed at the rate of from 5 to 8 pounds per head daily, depending on the size of the hogs. When this much skim milk is provided, little or no water is needed. Minerals can be fed in a self-feeder. A good mineral mixture is 20 pounds flake salt, 40 pounds ground limestone, 40 pounds spent bone black, and 2 1/2 of an ounce of potassium iodide.

Corn is ready for hogging down when the grain begins to dent. Very little corn will be wasted in the hogging down process when the field is fenced off so that the pigs will be confined in comparatively small areas so that they will be able to clean up the area in two or three weeks. In fields yielding around 50 bushels of corn to the acre enough corn will be provided in one acre for feeding 20 pigs 19 days. Forty pigs will clean up an acre of this corn in about 9 days, and 60 pigs, in about 6 days. The heavier the corn yield, the smaller should be the areas fenced off. Woven wire makes the best fence. It is fastened right to the corn stalks and supported where necessary by posts or stakes driven into the ground. Hogs should be kept out of fields after heavy rains for then they waste corn and may injure the land, especially the heavier soils which are subject to puddling.

Hard for Foreigners to Grasp Chinese Etiquette

Social intercourse in China is so complicated that the traveler from other lands often finds himself baffled completely when he tries to follow its intricacies. Every action, every gesture, every carefully worded phrase is replete with hidden meaning.

For instance, it is wrong to remove your hat when entering a Chinese home. It is an insult equally as bad as if, in this country, one did not remove one's headgear. Again, you should never offer a Chinese your hand to shake. You must shake hands with yourself, both on arrival and departure. If you are offered anything to drink, it is a breach of etiquette to touch it before the moment you are about to leave. You will notice that your host will pick a cake or choice biscuit and put it on your plate. In return, you must pick the daintiest morsel from the dish of sweetmeats and place it on his plate. In doing so you pay him the greatest compliment.

Indian Monkeys Assume Role of Bold Bandits

Depredations of monkeys at the hill station of Marthan, near Bombay, India, are causing annoyance and anxiety. Cases have been reported where various articles and food have been snatched away from women and children, and in one instance a well-organized raid was carried out on a meat safe full of fruit. Monkeys abound all over southern India, but it is unusual for them to become so daring as to play the role of highwaymen. In many parts of India monkeys, as well as peacocks, are encouraged by Hindus to live in the temple precincts, and often near the idol, Hanuman, "the monkey god." One railway station in India is literally in the hands of monkeys, who swarm all over the roof and passengers are regularly warned to close the windows of the carriages. Failure to observe this warning inevitably results in the loss of food and small articles from carriages.

Writers Who Worked Fast

There are many instances of works that come full-grown from the creator's brains. Robert Louis Stevenson wrote "The Strange Case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" on waking from a troubled sleep, while desperately ill; and he wrote the whole amazing work at literally fever heat, then rewrote it from start to finish, and all within six days. Longfellow's "Psalm of Life" was built up from notes he jotted down on a bit of blank paper, or card, in his pocket; but of "The Wreck of the Hesperus," he said: "I feel pleased with the ballad. It hardly cost me an effort. It did not come to my mind by lines, but by stanzas."

Quick Relief for Coughing Spells

Famous Prescription Stops Them Almost Instantly.

The phenomenal success of a doctor's famous prescription called Thoxine is due to its double action. It immediately soothes the internal cause not reached by patent medicines and cough syrups. The very first swallow usually stops even the most obstinate cough.

Thoxine contains no harmful drugs, is pleasant tasting and safe for the whole family. Sold on a money back guarantee to give better and quicker relief for coughs or sore throat than anything you have ever tried. Ask for Thoxine, put up ready for use in 35c, 60c, and $1.00 bottles. Sold by Hamilton & Ryan.—Adv.

Color Blindness in Bees Proved by Investigator

Bees are said to be color blind and learn their way about by experience rather than instinct, says an investigator. It has been discovered that to the bees red and black look alike, orange and yellow look the same as green, and there is no difference in the appearance of blue, violet and purple. It has long been known that the longer bees live in a certain hive the more they will be able to find their way home. This has been tested by putting bees to sleep by ether and taking them to a new hive, which was then moved to a location some 12 yards away from their former home. None of them upon awaking and flying away could find their way to the new home for three days. By that time 30 per cent could find their way back. In five days, however, 90 per cent had become so accustomed to their new location that they could go away and return to the right place.—Montreal Family Herald.

Sea Riddle Unanswered

If you were plunging the depths of the sea in the Antarctic and your sounding machine came to a sudden stop at about 1,000 fathoms and as suddenly started again and ran on another 1,000 fathoms or so, what would be your explanation?

Twice this has happened in recent Antarctic exploration and the scientists were present to not know how to explain it. A very easy answer would be that the sounding weight landed on a whale and then, falling off, resumed its bottomward journey. But the trouble with this explanation is that 1,000 fathoms is pretty deep for a surface creature like a whale. Pressures are enormous down there.

Sugar and Hot Water

I read the other day a most interesting article upon sugar and its value and how it is being appreciated more and more as a producer of energy. It appears that coaches who train athletes in universities are allowing their trainees more sugar. In coming in from a tennis match on a very hot day I have been astonished to find how quickly one can be refreshed by a cup of hot water in which three or four lumps of sugar have been dissolved. It sounds like a dreadful combination to anyone not used to it, but its effect is felt almost instantly.—Helen Wells in the Saturday Evening Post.

Pretty Idea for Clock

To suggest the gathering of sweets in which he specializes, a French confectioner has devised a clock that suggests bees passing from flower to flower. The dial is of parchment, the hands are in the form of large bees and the hour markings are different flowers. At each hour both bees alight on a bloom.

Quicksand Formation

Quicksand is a loose sand into which solid bodies readily sink. It is composed of water worn and rounded particles which under ordinary pressure pack together, and behave like a fluid when moistened. When heavy objects are pressed upon the surface, they are very quickly swallowed up.

Nowadays, people take Bayer Aspirin for many little aches and pains, and as often as they encounter any pain.

Why not? It is a proven antidote for pain. It works!

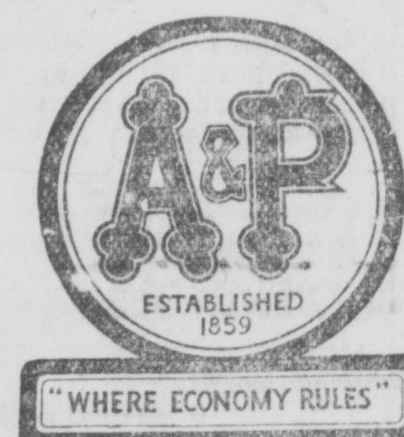

And Bayer Aspirin tablets are utterly harmless. You have the medical profession's word for that; they do not depress the heart.

So, don't let a cold "run its course." Don't wait for a headache to "wear off." Or regard neuralgia, neuritis, or even rheumatism as something you must endure. Only a physician can cope with the cause of such pain, but you can always turn to Bayer Aspirin for relief.

Bayer Aspirin is always available, and it always helps. Familiarize yourself with its many uses, and avoid a lot of needless suffering.

Better Feeding Big Need in Herds

The accompanying chart graphically illustrates the most important facts shown in the recent official records of 152,000 dairy cows in dairy herd improvement associations. It might be likened to a yardstick measuring the need for better feeding in every dairy cow in every barn in the United States.

As the chart shows, a single cow producing 200 pounds of butterfat a year makes more profit above feed cost than do four cows each producing 100 pounds. The point the Blue Valley Creamery Institute especially emphasizes is that practically 4 out of 5 dairy herds in the Mississippi Valley at present are made up of 100, 150, 200 and 250-pound cows. According to the Institute's estimate, based on government census reports, the cows in this area are now producing an average of about 164 pounds of butterfat. Whenever milking herds produce an average of 164 pounds per cow, it can be safely stated that approximately half of the cows are producing below that figure and half of the cows above it.

These estimates, based on the latest authentic figures obtainable, emphasize the imperative need of better feeding, more thorough culling and better breeding in the average dairy herd. Better feeding is perhaps the greatest need of all. Unless each cow is fed her grain ration as an individual and unless her daily or weekly milk record is kept, it is extremely difficult for even the man who feeds and milks the herd to tell what each cow is earning above feed cost. CADILLAC SLIDES, HITS PARKED FORD

No One Injured Although Both Cars Are Demolished By Impact Sunday.

Automobile accidents were numerous over the week-end, but in none were the occupants of the machines seriously injured. Sunday afternoon, a new Cadillac sedan which passed through Circleville skidded on the hill on the Columbus-pk. just south of the power plant and turned over on the top of a Ford coupe. No one was seriously injured.

The occupants of the Cadillac were five nuns from Mt. Carmel hospital, and a chauffeur. The car belonged to the hospital. The Ford, in which the owner, Nannie Wilson, and another passenger of Portsmouth were riding, was almost demolished. The Cadillac was damaged on one side and the top crushed. The windshield and door glass was also shattered. How the passengers in the cars escaped death seemed a miracle to those who saw the crash.

Several small wrecks also took place on the Dawson and West-falls, but none resulted seriously. The cars were brought to the Harry Clifton garage.

Wonderful Building

The Mormon tabernacle is in many ways unique, particularly in the construction of the roof. It was planned by Henry Grow and William H. Folsom. The building is a perfect ellipse, 250 feet long, 156 feet wide and 80 feet high, and has a seating capacity of over 8,000. The marvelous acoustic properties of the auditorium are due to the fact that the roof is entirely unsupported except at the walls. No nails were used in the roof, the timbers being tied in place with cowhide and held together with wooden pegs.

Zinc in Industry

Starting with the Nineteenth century the increase in the use of zinc was decidedly accelerated. During the first decade the production was estimated at 6,000 tons. In the fifth decade the output had jumped to 367,000 tons, and for the half century the total was 635,000 tons. The output of the second half century reached the amazing total of 12,100,000 tons, or an increase of 1,800 per cent. The acceleration has continued, and in the year 1927 the output was 1,444,000 tons, a total equal to the production of the first 90 years of the Nineteenth century.

Nearly one-third of the entire world's output of zinc has been produced in the United States.

CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS

In many cities the lead in the observance of Columbus Day is left to citizens of Italian origin. This is much more creditable to those of foreign lineage than to those who boast of their colonial heritage.

It is most natural that Italian emotions should be aroused in connection with Christopher Columbus. He is outstanding among Italian great men. One can readily understand why those who celebrated Saturday did it with spirit and enthusiasm.

But it is not so easy to understand why others in this and other cities should not find in Columbus an inspiration to do his memory honor. One need only recall the persistency with which this Genoese navigator, fired by the book of the Polos on their experience in Cathay, pressed his claims before the thrones of Portugal and Spain until finally royal approval was won, to admire the traits of character which belonged to Columbus. Even if Columbus had not set sail or even made the discoveries he did, his was a life to challenge respect. Without his explorations his name probably would not have been handed down, but none the less in character and talent he was an unusual man and Circleville observed his day in the spirit not only of gratitude but of admiration.

Odd House Constructed at Behest of "Spirits"

The Paolo Alto Chamber of Commerce says: "The Winchester house, in this city, was built by Mrs. Winchester, the widow of the famous firearms man, who was a spiritualist. She claimed the spirits told her she would not die as long as the sound of hammers was heard in her house, and as a result she kept building and building and changing and, when the spirits told her, left off one section half finished and started another. It is estimated that at least $1,000,000 was spent on the structure, and parts of it have not been explored. The house is some three stories high—that is, it looks to be that—but there may be five in some parts where it is built in miniature sections. There are several wings, and the architectural style is largely that in fashion many years ago—very ornate and ugly. Only the best of material was used in the wood parts, and the furnishings which have now been removed were truly magnificent. One room the one in which she communed with her spirit guide, was furnished and hung entirely in black velvet. Others were masterpieces in satin and there were closets full of the best linens, silks, etc., for the entertainment of her spirit guests. She lived alone with her niece and a nurse and never had visitors. If the house itself there are staircases that lead to nowhere, ending in a blank wall. There are others that break off and end some 6 feet down. There are rooms 1 foot wide and there is a tiny balcony with doors about 4 feet high leading to it. There are other staircases with 2-inch risers. Surrounding this curiously house of a dingy color are tall cedar hedges and a nondescript garden."

KIDNAP RACKET WORRIES POLICE

New York Underworld Terrorizes Victims Into Silence.

New York.—New York's most recent underworld racket—it may or may not have been broken up by three recent arrests—has produced at least seven kidnappings, about which the police know something and probably has produced more. It is a merciless, cruel racket, but it is based, as so many underworld activities are based, on the tendency of "honest" business men to get rich quick by activities that are just outside the law.

At least seven brokers have been taken from their homes in the last year. They have been held for a day, two days, or sometimes three, until they paid a ransom demand by their captors. Then, to the whole incident in security, the kidnapers have become blackmailers and have agreed to say nothing about the business indiscretions of the brokers if the brokers say nothing about the kidnappings.

No Complaints Made.

So carefully have the kidnapers worked in selecting victims that not one formal complaint has been made to the police. Detectives trying to find out exactly who is in the "racket" were balked before they started.

Two cases the kidnaped brokers were victims of torture, one so vicious that it recalls those old days of the Spanish inquisition. But the victim of this last case refused to make a complaint, even though Commissioner Whalen himself asked him to do so.

In that particular case, according to Commissioner Whalen, the men responsible for the violent torture are under arrest, and have been in jail nearly two months. In this connection, perhaps, it is interesting to note that the racket is entwined with all the outstanding events of the underworld, and that in the arrest of the men said to be responsible for the torture, there is a connection, easily traced to the murders of Arnold Rothstein, Frank Marlow and Frankie Yale of Brooklyn.

Detectives do not hesitate to say that they believe bootlegging, gambling, laundry racketeering, kidnapping racketeering, murder, and assault are all closely interwoven, and that the three murders already regarded as outstanding are in some way, however indirect, connected.

Three Under Arrest.

Dave Grosso, Mike McDermott and Charlie Green have been arrested. It is curious to note that all three were arrested in murder cases and that no charge of kidnapping or racketeering of that sort will be made against them. Yet Whalen says that Green, who was picked up in Chicago, was one of the leaders in the kidnapping racket, and that both Grosso and McDermott were active assistants.

Green is charged, under indictment, with participation in the Hoisy Totsy murders. Grosso and McDermott are held as material witnesses in the Frank Marlow murder. It has been learned that Grosso and McDermott missed a charge of murder in that case only because one person could not remember one letter on a motor car license.

There are brokers in New York who make big money on semi-bucket shop deals. They take money from outsiders and invest on quick turnovers. If they win they keep the profits. If they lose they are not interested to the racketeers. There are other brokers who have dealt in under-cover transactions and made killings. These are the men who become victims of the kidnappers.

The brokers couldn't afford to have the details of their business made public. So closely are they watched that when they make a killing it is known. They are kidnaped. And they pay the ransom demanded, usually half of the killing they have made.

Milk Bacteria Counted

Ithaca, N. Y.—If each bacterium were a dollar, a cubic centimeter of milk would be worth more than a million, according to James D. Braw of Cornell university. Direct count under microscopes reveals as high as an average of 1,500,000 bacteria in cubic centimeter samples.

Bare Snakes

Fort Worth, Texas.—A temporary injunction restraining his wife, whom he is suing for divorce, from taking possession of "Bosco," a wild snake, has been granted here to Charles Best. "Bosco" is a carnival attraction.

Boy Is Rewarded for Acting in Emergency

Concord, N. H.—A group of small boys, playing in a street, saw a power wire fall. One of them, Frederick Hamilton, nine years old, took command of the situation, sent one of his playmates into the house for "something red to wave," dispatched another to telephone to the electric company, and himself took a post by the fallen wire to warn traffic of the danger. Allen Hollis, president of the electric company, and Mayor Robert W. Brown, witnessed part of the incident and the former presented young Hamilton with $5 in appreciation of his service.

During the five centuries that the Turks held Bulgaria wild life had an excellent opportunity to thrive, since the Turks, although good hunters with falcons and greyhounds, are not inclined to kill for sport.

"KNOCKOUT"

Blue Blood And Red

by ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

EDDIE REGAN, once a member of a New York gang, has broken away and gone to Virginia, where he betrays Penfield Paradine, who dies and leaves all his possessions to Eddie. Eddie had been in love with Bernice Veress, "gang girl," but all thought of her is lost when he meets an' falls in love with Marian Thorndike. Marian is engaged to Tom Freeman. Freeman and Eddie dislike each other. Eddie, discouraged because Marian tells him it is hopeless for him to love her, goes to Richmond, where he meets Mike Arno, a former member of the gang, who tries to persuade him to return to New York and Bernice. Eddie, however, returns to his farm and telephones Marian, asking her if he may call. Freeman overhears the conversation and a fight ensues, in which Eddie knocks Freeman out and takes him to Marian's home. Freeman is revived and tells Eddie he wants to be friends and they shake hands on the bargain.

Now Go On with the Story

CHAPTER XXXIII.
"I don't feel right about letting you go home alone," she said. "Even if you do feel all right now, you might get worse before you get home. Maybe you ought to have some kind of a stimulant." Freeman said, "I'll try a shot of your father's corn liquor." "A small shot," she agreed, and brought it to him. They all went out on the front veranda and sat in wicker furniture while Freeman finished his drink. "Yes, sir, it was one doggone hot fight while it lasted," Freeman said, reminiscence, as he sat down his glass. "I reckon I'm not the man I used to be—or I wouldn't have passed out so sudden. But I don't want to take any credit away from you, Regan. You are a hard-fisted scrapper and you got plenty of nerve. Even if I hated you—which I don't—I'd have to give you that much credit."

"You had me licked up to the very last second," Eddie said, generously. "You are both idiots," Marian declared, but somehow there was no sting in her words. She could all them idiots and make it sound like a compliment.

They were surprised when the headlights of an automobile turned into the driveway. Marian's father, unexpectedly, had come home. A friend had driven him over from the station; Marian's mother had not returned, but would be back the next day.

Marian ran down to the car to meet him; Freeman followed her and picked up Mr. Thorndike's baggage. Together they came up on the veranda. Eddie got to his feet.

"How do you do, Mr. Thorndike?" he said, slightly uncertain. The older man looked at him with a faint surprise. "Good evening, Mr. Regan," he said, a trifle stiffly.

Suddenly his eyes in the better light lit upon Freeman's bruised and discolored face. "My goodness, Tom! What on earth is the matter with your face? You look like you've been fighting."

"No," Freeman lied, "I slipped on the stairs at home this afternoon and fell down. I just dropped over for a few minutes—going home now."

Somehow the atmosphere became noticeably awkward. Freeman was going. The fight and the return of Marian's father had spoiled Eddie's evening and he, too, was ready to go. Surely Marian would realize

Summing It Up

Be not afraid of life. Believe that life is worth living, and your belief will help create the fact.

She waited for her father to express satisfaction, but he was coldly silent.

"It was a dreadful thing to happen, I know," Marian went on with a lowered voice. "You'll never know what I went through while Tom was unconscious on the bed upstairs. I was afraid he might never wake up."

"What were they fighting about, Marian?"

"They didn't say, father. It's no use trying to deceive me, child. They fought over you, didn't they?"

Marian's voice sank. "I suppose so."

Mr. Thorndike compressed his lips and shook his head.

"I knew we were breeding trouble when you let that Regan fellow come to this house. Tom Freeman is all right—there's good blood there and he is a suitable friend for you. If you ever love Tom and want to marry him I wouldn't have a single objection in the world. We've known him all of his life and, whatever his failings, he is a gentleman. But that other fellow—that Regan—he is all wrong."

"The fact that Paradine took up with him proves it, for me. Who is he? He's a foreigner and the commonest kind of a man. Doubtless he is a rogue, too. Marian, we can't have him coming here any more."

"I don't think you're quite fair, father," said her plaintive voice. "You don't know him at all."

"That's just it—we don't know who he is or where he came from. Chances are he sprang from the lowest level of society. There's something of the street urchin about him that I don't like. No, Marian dear, you are too fine and sweet to receive attentions from such a man."

"You're prejudiced—"

"Of course, I am prejudiced—I am prejudiced in your favor. I want to shield you from roughness and coarseness and vulgarity. You are a girl, and you are not able to judge a man as I am. You don't know the world, Marian. Believe me, I don't want to interfere with any of your friendships with men in your own station of life—you are free to receive any honorable gentleman of your class. But I must forbid here and taking advantage of all that is refined and delicate in you."

"But I am not an heiress," she protested. "We are really poor people ourselves. I wouldn't attract a fortune hunter."

"That's not the point," her father objected. "He is beneath you—and unsuitable in every way. I must put my foot down and forbid your receiving him under any circumstances."

Suddenly, Marian's eyes grew larger and brighter—reflected an unmistakable inner vigor of opinion.

"If that's the way you feel," she said, her voice suddenly trembling and passionate, "I'll put my foot down, too. I invited him to call and I'm not going to be bullied about it. I like him better than any man I know—and I'm going to see him as often and as freely as I like."

"Any way, they shook hands and made up. I don't think there will be any more trouble between them."

Denotes Burial Place

The word "columbium" is derived from the Latin word "columba," meaning a dove. The word was originally applied to rows or niches in the walls of sepulchral chambers in Roman burial places from their fancied resemblance to the dove-cote. Eventually the name was applied to the chamber itself; hence its use at the present time.

Strangles Sweetheart

Crazed by jealousy and bootleg liquor, Dexter C. Dayton, twenty-five, according to the police, confessed that he strangled his sweetheart, Marjorie O'Donnell, twenty-three, to death in the room they were occupying in a Washington D. C. hotel.

The body of the girl, an employee of the National Geographic Society, and daughter of John O'Donnell, Oil City, Pa., editor, was found by police after Dayton had called a bell-boy and told him: "I have killed my sweetheart."

It was the second murder of its kind in the capital in less than a month.

"For a number of years I suffered great pain from rheumatism in my joints and hips," said Mrs. Lillian B. Nelson, 230 N. Center St., Youngstown, Ohio. "My stomach also was a source of misery to me. Every muscle in my body ached and pained from the rheumatism. Gas formed on my stomach after every meal. My stomach bloated and I suffered from heart palpitation."

Konjola was so highly recommended that I felt it must have some merit and decided to give it a trial. That was the turning point. I rapidly improved and soon Konjola had restored my digestion and increased my appetite. Rheumatism is a thing of the miserable past. In every way I have been benefited. I actually feel twenty years younger. No wonder I am enthusiastic about Konjola."

A'S TRY TO END SERIES WITH EHMKE

Announce 8 To 1 Odds On Macks For Final Contest
With No Takers.

By DAVIS J. WALSH
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)
PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Oct.
14—Another day of drama this afternoon and perhaps the world series of 1929 will be no more, except in a vivid, burning memory that will live, not for just an hour, not for just a day, not for just a year—but always. The Philadelphia Athletics, immortal sponsors of that ten run rally in the seventh inning of Saturday's ball game, can end it all before night fall. They need only best the Chicago Cubs again in the fifth game of the series and the world's title will be theirs without demur.

Incidentally they could select no more auspicious moment for the Coup De Grace, since the first fan of the nation, President Hoover, will be among the 30,000 crowd, just a plain, everyday American taking his holiday as millions of other Americans would wish to take it. The president and Mrs.
Hoover, accompanied by Attorney
General and Mrs. William D.
Mitchell and Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde, will arrive from Washington at one o'clock just in time to take in the game, which will start a half hour later.
They will occupy the box of honor as the guests of the Shibes.

So, in the presence of the most illustrious guests the nation can offer, the most remarkable world series of the decade will go on to —what? Frankly, a series that can produce an inning like Saturday's seventh and a total of 44 strike-outs for the Cubs in four games might be deemed to be capable of further miracles, of which a come back for the Cubs today would have to be par or better for the course.

NOT DOWNHEARTED

Their heads might be bloody, under the bludgeonings of fate, this Chicago outfit, but they held them high today as they left for the ball park and there was not a man of them who didn't vow that the past was a clean slate on which the present and future were to write a paen of triumph. The Cubs talked a good victory this morning, having recovered some measure of composure after the shock of Saturday's developments, but it may be another thing to talk a home run over the fence against a club that now was convinced that it couldn't go wrong.

Such a club was the Athletics, leading in the series by three games to one and needing only a single victory in any one of the remaining three to take title to the championship. The remaining three? Such a club as the Athletics, having overcome an eight run lead in a single inning on Saturday, could conceive of nothing more improbable than that the series would carry beyond this afternoon. They figure they have the series won and their idea is to keep it won.

They had both the weather and betting fraternity with them on this plan, the day dawning clear and bright, thus giving them a chance to play the ball game.
This was important, it having been discovered some years ago that you can't win a ball game that you don't play. As for the gamblers, they said it with odds as high as 8 to 1 with no takers, everybody having accepted a Philadelphia victory as a matter of fact.

ODDS 8 TO 1

If it doesn't come today in Philadelphia, they argue, it must come in the sixth game at Chicago on Wednesday, or at the worst, in the seventh and final game on Thursday. They were betting pearls against pretzels this morning that it wouldn't go that far, however.

Wesley's house in the City road, London, adjoining the chapel of which he laid the foundation stone in 1777, has been converted into a museum of interesting relics of the famous preacher. Here may be seen his bedroom as it was when he died there on March 2, 1791, intact with its beautiful Chippendale furniture, one article of which, a massive bureau with curious secret drawers, has been valued at many thousands of pounds, apart from its associations. Adjoining the bedroom are his praying closet and his study, the latter a spacious apartment, also furnished in Chippendale. Here are preserved his preaching gown of flowered brocade, his riding shoes and stirrups, and many other personal belongings, including the pen he was writing with when he lay dying.

JIMMY FOXX

Jimmy Foxx, who plays lots of first base for the Philadelphia Athletics, has been a big factor in the three to one edge the Macks now have gained over the Cubs in the World Series. Foxx hit home runs in each of the first two games and gave the Athletics the start they needed both times to gain a victory. He is at present one of the series heroes.

PUMPKIN SHOW TO BRING VISITORS

to come to Circleville promising them work on the levee.

David R. Dillehunt, of the Ohio State Life Insurance Co., Columbus, whose sole mission was the hope of finding a copy of a book written by a resident of Circleville, Joseph Doddridge and published in 1824, visited The Herald office Saturday. The title of this book was "Early Settlement and Indian Wars of Western Virginia and Pennsylvania from 1763 to 1783."

We learn that Joseph Doddridge was the first Episcopal minister in the State of Ohio. He was also a doctor of medicine and a graduate of Rush Medical College at Philadelphia, Pa. During those days money was very scarce and could not be spent for religious work so accordingly Mr. Doddridge financed his own work from 1791 to 1818. During that time he built churches at Steubenville, Cadiz and St. Clairsville and preached at Circleville and Chillicothe.

This book of which Mr. Dille-hunt was searching is considered an authority of the early history of this particular territory and is very hard to obtain. It has been printed in its entirety in a number of other books. Samuel Kerche-val's "History of Ohio Valley" contains it.

The daughter of Mr. Doddridge, Miss Narcissa Doddridge started a republication of the volume but she died before finishing it and it was later completed by Alfred Williams and published in 1876 by Joel Munsells Sons of Albany, N.
Y. This issue also contains a very lengthy preface which is practically a history of the Doddridge family and also contains many incidents related to Miss Doddridge by her father.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

To the Editor of The Herald.
Dear Sir:
I have been a follower of the local football team for quite a while and have seen the team win and lose. On most every occasion the team had the support of a large crowd of "rooters" from our city.

Friday I attended the Clarksburg football game and of the most noticeable phases of the contest I noticed that there were only two cheers given all afternoon.

After some inquiry I found that both of the cheerleaders from C.
H. S. were there, and still there were no yells given, except the two I spoke of.

Now I know that at the end of the year the cheerleaders are awarded a letter, but in my estimation the two who were at the Clarksburg game shouldn't get one.

One can picture very well the different ways the boys are getting their letters. The football men were out there fighting for their letters while those two cheerleaders sat on the sidelines.

I believe in fair play to everyone and I do not think that the football men of Circleville high school are receiving a fair deal when they have to fight so hard to earn a letter, while a couple of cheerleaders get one and don't work a particle for it.

Fairplay to All.

Meat Made Tender by Juice of Tropical Tree

The toughest beefsteak may be rendered as tender and delicious as the choicest porterhouse if one will carry with him wherever he dines a bottle of papaw tree juice and rub it on his meat. The papaw is a peculiar tree of northern South America and other tropical regions, where the natives use its juice in this way to improve their meat. It also has a number of other peculiar-ties, says a bulletin issued by the Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago.

The papaws are definitely divided into two sexes, with distinct characteristics, whereas in most plants and trees each individual is equipped to reproduce itself alone, possessing both the male and female organs. Among the papaws, of which there are some twenty-seven species, the male and female flowers are produced on separate trees, the male flowers occurring in long scattered racemes, and the female ones in short, small bunches.

Another peculiarity of the papaw is that the juice of the plants contains fibrine, a substance which so far as known exists elsewhere only in animal flesh. This, however, cannot be regarded as establishing a link between the animal and vegetable kingdoms in the chain of evolution, botanists declare.

So he abides with you, and when you have bought one small brass tea caddy and a carved box 3 by 4 inches, he insists on putting them into his basket, to be taken home with you. After trotting around with you for an hour or so, and padding along with you to your hotel, where the packages are delivered to a house boy, he receives four annas—about 10 cents—and he is content.

HEAR ARTISTS IN COLUMBUS

The usual number of residents from Circleville will be season patrons of the Woman's Music Club Series in Columbus. The first concert, Friday night at which Madame Louise Homer and Richard Bonelli were the artists, was attended by the following:

Mrs. Noah Weaver, Mrs. Elgar Barrere, Miss Grace Moodie, Col. C. E. Groce, Mrs. F. J. Bennett, Miss Abbe Mills Clarke, Mrs. James P. Moffitt, Miss Mary Heffner, Miss Helen Marion, Miss Bernadine Lutz, Mrs. Lorin E. Lutz and Mrs. Earl Lutz.

Richard Bonelli opened the program. His first group included songs by Handel, Bossi, Gliere and Tschalkowsky.

The arts of both singers were beautifully handled in two duets, "Night Hymn at Sea," by A. Goring-Thomas, began with an octave unison for the contralto and baritone. The ensemble was splendid considering the brief chance for rehearsal afforded.

Bonelli's next group, after an intermission of very short life, contained many sterling songs. He closed the group with a most effective number of Walter Golde, the well known accompanist, composer and coach.

In Madame Homer's final group were two compositions by Sidney Homer, husband of the contralto. They were done with loving devotion, and, as demonstrated by the dramatic and tragic "How's my boy?" with a most intense fidelity to the text. The other number by Mr. Homer, "Sheep and Lambs" was sketched in dainty pastoral shades. Another grand duet spelled finale to a most enjoyable evening.

Miss Katherine Homer accompanied her mother in the solos in expert fashion. Over half the time she was playing by memory. One can tell by looking at her that she is not a mere accompanist.

Mr. Frederick Schauwecker was accompanist for Bonelli.

LARGE CROWD AT FRIDAY GAME

A large crowd of enthusiastic football rosters, followed the Circleville team to Clarksburg Friday, where the local team was victorious. In the throng from this city were William Crist, Joel Russell, Charles Plum, Bob Griffith, John Kellstadt, Gene Rader, Mrs. Frank Davis, Tom White, Tom Lowe, Fred Smith, Peggy Courtright, Jeanne Crowe, Donald Goeller, Bob Maloney, Bill Steele, Mildred Campbell, Robert Campbell and Charlotte Moore.

Ellen Bennett, Linden Baughman, Bob Adkins, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fetherin, Mary Margaret Moore, Ralph Wallace, Mrs. Ed Wallace, Hugh Cartright, Fred Watts, Katherine Foresman, Christian Wefler, Eloise Hanley, Nina Denman, Mrs. George Foresman, Bob Trimble, Howard White, Mr. and Mrs. W. SOCIETY EVENT ON SATURDAY

The guests at Mrs. Ralph Curtains' luncheon-bridge Saturday were entertained at the home of Judge and Mrs. Clarence Curtin on E. Union-st. Seven tables were tastefully appointed, and the places marked by dainty cards and tallies. The flowers on the tables were yellow rosebuds. Other artistic bouquets were of calendulas and delphinium.

Following lunch at one o'clock the afternoon was devoted to progressive bridge. Carrying off the trophies for highest scores were Mrs. Harry Jackson and Mrs. Tom Gilliland.

The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Shirley Dreishach, Mrs. G. R. Gardner of Ashville and Mrs. Tom Gephart of Williamsport were out-of-town guests.

FAIL TO SHAKE TESTIMONY OF TWO WITNESSES

Pantages Told Employees To Tell False Stories Is Shown.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14, (INS)—Stories of two former employees of Alexander Pantages Monday, remained unshaken by a bombardment of cross examination questions flung by attorneys for the wealthy showman.

Those two, Roy Keene, former Assistant Manager of the Pantages Theatre, and Tillie Russo, formerly an Usherette at the showhouse, took the witness stand in the criminal assault trial of the millionaire.

They testified that their employer instructed them shortly after the alleged attack on Eunice Pringle, 17-year-old dancer, that they must give District Attorney Aaron Fitts false information in connection with the episode in his mezzanine conference room.

They not only told the version which they were instructed to repeat, but they gave the jury their own ideas of what took place on the afternoon of August 9, when Miss Pringle came to apply for work.

Keene took the stand first and told of what took place after the alleged attack when he talked to Pantages about the affair.

"Pantages pointed to a little table in his offices," the witness said. "And he told me to put it in the mezzanine room. I did. He told me to take everything else out of that room and then gave me a key."

"What did you find in the room?" he was asked.

"Some broken earrings on the floor which I picked up and placed in my pocket."

Keene then told that he threw the earrings away.

"I later told Pantages that I had been called to make a statement and asked him what I was to say. He told me that if I was asked to tell the district attorney that the desk was in the room all the while and that the room was used as a conference room for executives," he testified.

Keene said he asked Pantages if he wanted to see Miss Russo too before she went to the Prosecutor's office.

"He hesitated," Keene declared, "and then told me to be sure to tell Miss Russo to remember it was only three minutes between the time Eunice Pringle left the balcony until the usherette heard her scream."

Miss Russo testified she heard screams a half hour after Eunice Pringle entered the little office. She also stated that Pantages held a conversation with her the following day.

Pantages met me in the corridor of the theatre, she said, "He said to me: 'This is your statement—The girl came into the balcony alone and went out alone.'"

C. A. C. SCHEDULES CRACK ORCHESTRA

The Circleville Athletic club has secured Hogan Hancock and his orchestra for dancing at the gymnasium during the Pumpkin Show. This orchestra will come to Circleville from the Danceland Ballroom, Cleveland, and will play here for four nights.

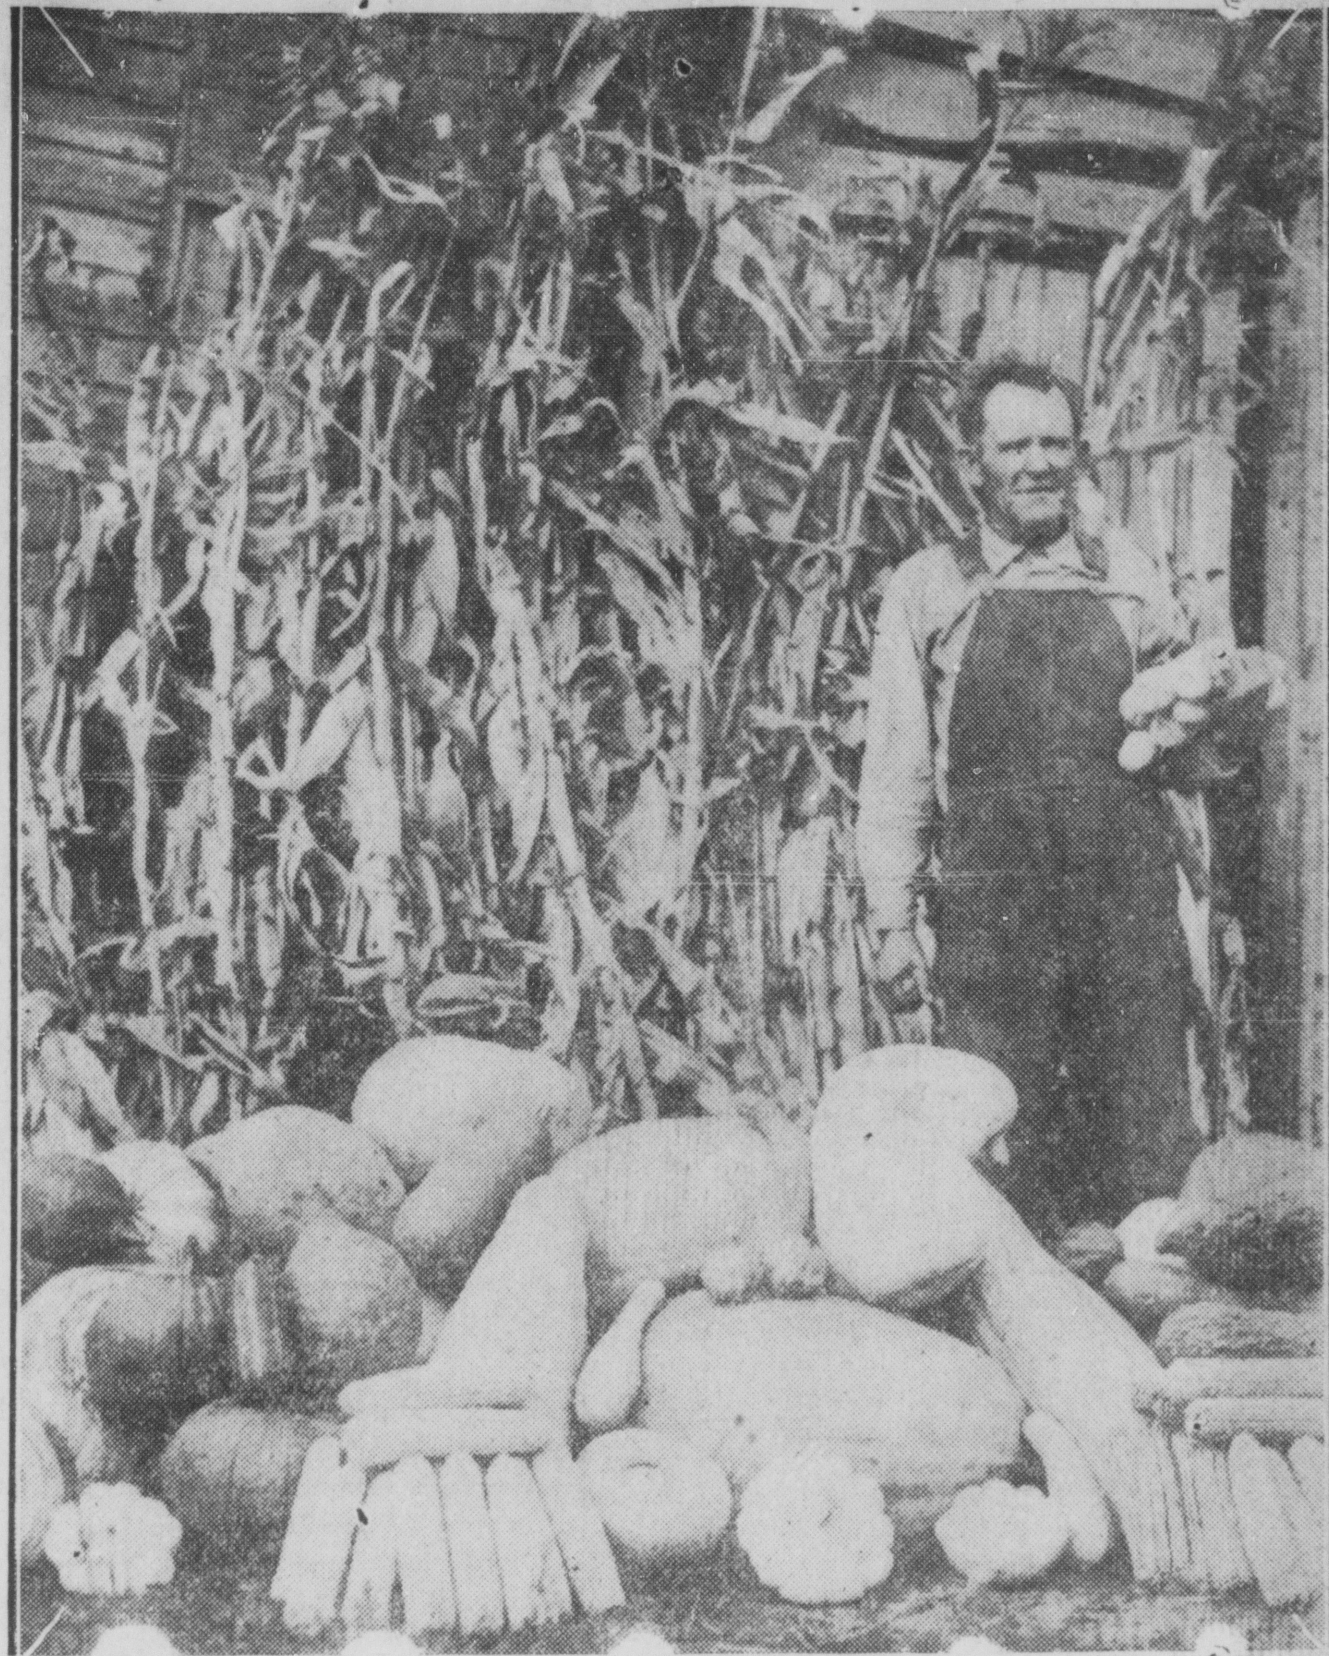

Hancock and his famous Gennet Recording orchestra will be one of the biggest attractions of the show. From Circleville they will go immediately to Louisville, Ky., to begin a winter engagement at the Old Madrid Ballroom.

This orchestra is one of the greatest singing, entertaining units, and have been a sensation where it has played. It was formerly featured at Summit Beach Park, Akron, Crystal Beach, Buffalo, Winona Beach, Bay City and Luna Pier, Toledo.

Delve Into Secrets of Island of Madagascar

A great deal of mystery surrounds the picturesque island of Madagascar. It appears to be the lumber room of an old continent, but which, or perhaps better, where is the continent, asks a correspondent: "Some think that Madagascar has broken away from its mother continent, Africa; others that it is one of the relics of a hypothetical continent, 'Lemuria,' which existed long ago in the Indian ocean between Africa and India." This is not, as the casual reader might think, a passage from some romance of the lost lands of the world. It is merely an extract from an official document, circulated by the British museum to call attention to the fact that an expedition is now at work in Madagascar seeking the solution of some of its riddles. It is not, then, beyond the bounds of possibility that the scientists may yet send the world authentic tidings of a lost continent.

ISLAND ROAD FARMER AND A FEW OF HIS EXHIBITS

These are a few of the exhibits, photographed at his farm on the Island Road, which Mr. J. B. Anderson, brought to Circleville's 1928 Pumpkin Show. For 21 years Mr. Anderson has been raising prize pumpkins and squashes for the big event and in nearly each year he has copped off a prize of one kind or another. In 1927 he took first prize in the big pumpkin event but in 1928 he had to be satisfied with second place.

TO DECORATE SHOW WINDOWS

All Merchants Are Complying With Pumpkin Show Spirit.

Another great attraction which always grasps the public eye at Pumpkin Show is the style show sponsored by the merchants each year. This style show is not a parade of the latest styles from Paris and that sort of show but is more or less a contest for the merchants to see who can decorate the best window with no prize awarded.

This year every merchant in the city says that he is going to have a window that will keep the people in front of his place of business all the week. Last year this seemed to be the chief attraction as almost every store window in town had a large crowd around it.

Each merchant tries to advertise his wares in the most appropriate manner. Some have fodder shocks and pumpkins, and others have make - believe camp fires which catches the eye quicker than anything. One thing which gave us a hint that this year will be a real window display was the fact that almost every merchant in town had part of his force out washing the windows Saturday and Monday and decorating them in brilliant colors.

Chinese Tit-Bit

The Chinese regard as a delicacy the nest of the selangane or of related species of swift or swiftlet of the Malay archipelago. It has the shape and size of half a tencup, is attached to the rock in the interior of a cave, and has the appearance of fibrous gelatine or isinglass. It is composed of a mucilaginous substance secreted by special glands, and is not, as was formerly thought, made from a glutinous seaweed.

Tomb of Spanish Kings

A short distance from Madrid, the temple of the Escorial was built by Philip II in memory of the martyr, St. Lawrence, who met his death on this spot. Here many of the Spanish kings are buried.

"When you can't find it anywhere else, look in this," was the label on a packet of letters, periodicals and papers found in Abraham Lincoln's law office.

ASHVILLE TO SEND 45-PIECE BAND TO SHOW

Three Circleville Men Hold Jobs In Crack Musical Organization.

The Ashville Community Band prominently known for its extraordinary music, which will make its appearance in Circleville at the Pumpkin Show Friday evening, contains several young men from Circleville.

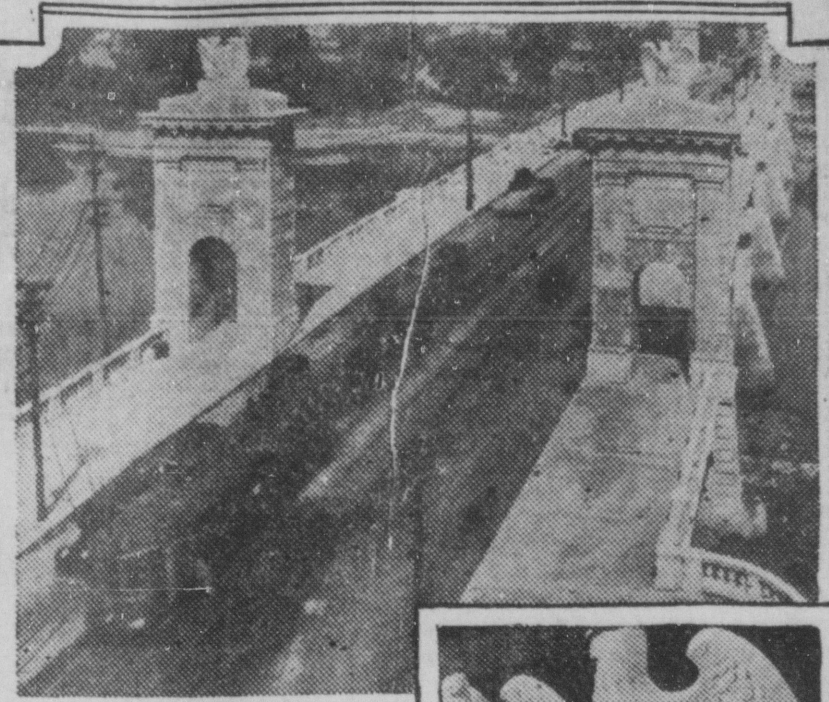

The band contains 45 pieces and are expected to attract lot's of attention in their new uniforms at the show. This band is fast gaining state-wide attention and as far as it can be learned it is the largest band in Central Ohio. Undoubtedly hundreds of persons from Ashville, Circleville and all of Pickaway-co will journey to the big show to see the boys carry on.

Each month finds several new faces joining the organization. The following young men of Circleville are members of the big band: Charles Plum, Charles Brown and Thomas Stofor. Other members include Roy Kuhlwein, George Brintlinger, Curtis Cromley, Richard Wills, Richard Welch, Orville Newton, Bernard Parks, Clyde Harris, William Duvall, Samuel Miller, Joe Higley, Joseph Peters, William Cordray, Rodney Ballard, William Cook, Emerson Brown, Hoadley Brintlinger, Howard Cordray, Clayton Baum, Wayne Brown, John Moss, Chas. Eagle Sentries Guard Giant Bridge

MARKET STREET BRIDGE, WILKES-BARRE, PA.

An era of beauty has dawned for the ugly bridge of yesterday.

Definite departure from former standards is being taken since designers and builders have reached a new agreement that engineering structures shall rank in beauty with construction enterprises marked by great aesthetic worth.

Old world charm in its river structures has become the inspiration for American enterprise. "Tin" bridges are passe. Architectural merit is being built into the newest.

Natural stone is proving its adaptability to the new field, according to A. E. Dickinson, president of the Indiana Limestone Company. The new Market Street bridge in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., is an outstanding example, designed by the architects, Carrere & Hastings. A remarkable feature of the bridge is the four sculptured eagles. Perched atop the massive arched entrances, these huge stone birds, with wings outspread, measure nine feet high and nine and a half feet wide.

"From our Bedford-Bloomington quarries carloads of stone go regularly to similar engineering projects in various parts of the country," says President Dickinson. "This activity is all part of a new order of beauty in a field where usefulness, and only usefulness, was paramount until recently."

COON BROTHERS ENTER PUMPKINS

R. L. Brehmer, chairman of the pumpkin and squash display is assured of some real squashes and pumpkins on display this year according to word received Monday.

Coon brothers, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Coon, who reside near Ashville, will have one of the largest displays ever shown before.

These brothers have always been noted for their pumpkins and squashes.

The boys carried off the big prize last year and are favorites to repeat it this year, for they have spent several days selecting their beauties for the big show. They have several pumpkins which will weigh one hundred pounds and over.

Wise Housewife Will Make The Most of Tomato Time

By Prudence Goodhue
TOM-AT-TOES or tom-ah-toes, have it your own way, the fact remains that once they were called "love apples." We never learned exactly why they earned this romantic name, but I am just romantic enough to like to call them that better than by an absurd Indian name.

If you are one of the many women who use the hot-house variety the year round or the canned article, you will now appreciate even more the big, luscious, sun-ripened garden tomatoes available at the market.

kets at this season of the year. At this time, tomatoes are at their best and their cheapest.

And—here's a real hint—if you want to keep your figure slender, eat plenty of tomatoes in place of starchy foods.

Appropos of the season I include today a series of excellent tomato recipes. Try them.

Tomato Salad

6 small ripe tomatoes
Lettuce
Cooked mayonnaise
Salt and pepper
Scald and blanch tomatoes and remove skins. Chill. Cut each tomato into quarters, leaving the quarters joined at bottom. Place on crisp lettuce leaf. Season with salt and pepper and serve with cooked mayonnaise. Yield: 6 servings.

Cooked Mayonnaise Dressing
2 tsp. butter
4 tsp. flour
1/2 cup evaporated milk
1/2 cup water
1 tsp. sugar
1/4 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. mustard
Dash cayenne
1/4 tsp. paprika
White pepper
2 egg yolks
1 cup salad oil
2 tsp. lemon juice
1 tsp. vinegar

Prepare a white sauce of the butter, flour, evaporated milk and water. Put the dry ingredients into the mixing bowl. Add egg yolks and mix until well blended. Then add salad oil and hot white sauce and beat with a Dover beater until thick and smooth. Last, add lemon juice and vinegar and beat well. One

Although he was new to the beat it was not long before the young policeman noticed that in one house lights were left burning in every room until the early hours of the morning.

"Thanks very much, officer," said the householder, on being informed "but it's not accidental."

"Oh?" said the policeman suspiciously.

Sugar Tariff May Affect Next Preserving Season

By Prudence Goodhue
DOWN in Washington, the nation's lawmakers are talking about increasing the sugar tariff because the sugar producers say that the present prices are below the cost of production and distribution. And the indications seem to be that there will be at least some tariff increase on this product. That means an increase in sugar prices at your grocery store.

With a wary eye on the Washington situation the wise housewife will do well to do as much preserve and jam making as she can this year, while prices are fairly low. Almost everywhere it has been a good fruit year. Preserves may be used to take the place of more expensive sweets next year.

We have submitted below a series of suggestions on how to use preserves and jams in a number of delightful ways that depart from the usual bread spread. We think they will prove a boon on many occasions, from the standpoint of economy and appeal.

Filled Cookies
1/2 cup fat (lard) 1/2 tsp. salt
1 cup sugar 2 tbs. evaporated milk
2 eggs 3 tbs. water
2 cups family flour 1 tsp. vanilla
2 tbs. baking powder
Cream fat until plastic. Add sugar gradually and then the well beaten eggs, creaming until smooth and fluffy. Sift flour, then measure. Re-sift with baking powder and salt. Add flour and diluted milk alternately and the vanilla at last. Mix only just enough to blend ingredients well. If dough is too soft to roll, chill for at least one hour in the refrigerator. Roll out thin, cut in rounds and place on slightly greased baking sheet. Put a teaspoon of jam on each, not allowing it to spread to the edge. Place another cookie on top and press down the edges. Bake in a hot oven (400° F.) about 15 minutes to the preferred color. Yield: 3 dozen cookies.

Jelly Roll
3 eggs 3 tbs. evaporated milk
1 1/2 cups pastry 2 tbs. water
1/2 cup sugar 2 tbs. lemon extract
1 tsp. baking powder 1 cup plum or other tart fruit jelly
1/4 tsp. salt
Beat the yolks of the eggs until light and lemon colored, then add the sugar and continue beating until creamy. Sift the flour with the baking powder and salt. Add flour and milk alternately to the yolk-sugar mixture, beginning and ending with flour. Add flavoring. Cut and mix in carefully the stiffly beaten whites. Pour batter onto a slightly greased long shallow pan. The batter should not be thicker than one fourth inch, for if it is thicker the cake will not roll easily. Bake about 8 minutes in a slow oven (325° F.), watching closely as it bakes. Remove from oven and cool just enough to handle. Turn out on a thin cloth, cut off the side crust and spread quickly with the jelly. Roll up and wrap the cloth around it to keep in shape. Yield: One large roll.

Jam Tarts
Pastry: 1 cup flour 1/2 tsp. salt 1/2 cup fat 2 1/2 tbs. cold water
Filling: 1 cup raspberry jam 1/2 cup evaporated milk 1 tbs. lemon juice 2 tbs. raspberry jam
Sift flour with salt. Cut fat into flour with two knives until consistency is that of coarse corn meal. Add just enough water to form a stiff dough, mixing lightly. Divide into five portions. Form into discs and roll out to one-eighth of an inch thickness. Cover the bottoms of tart pans or large muffin pans to form tart shells. Bake in a hot oven (400° F.), to a delicate brown. Cool thoroughly and fill shells with jam. Cover with topping prepared in following way: Have evaporated milk heated to scalding point in top part of double boiler. Chill in a bowl surrounded by iced water and salt. Whip with a Dover beater until stiff. Add lemon juice and jam and whip again. Add sugar to suit taste. Chill before serving. Yield: 5 servings.

Poetic Similarity of

River and Human Life

Without generalizing too grossly, we may say that a river is like a human life. Prof. William Lyon Phelps writes, in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. The source is often obscure and humble, then a tiny stream, then growing bigger and more important (the widening of influence), then flowing tranquilly (prosperous, happy days), now getting into sand flats, hardly moving (serious illness), now roaring tempestuously in rapids (times of excitement and adventure), yet going on, somehow and somewhere.

Furthermore, they always arrive ultimately at the same destination—the mysterious, open sea, leaving narrow circumstances for a deeper and greater existence.

And even those streams that seem to perish without fulfilling their destiny, are in their subsequent influence like the lives of obscurely good men.

Travelers in a desert sometimes come to a bit of green meadow, where a river once has been.

Animals play games like children, says a famous naturalist. Imagine a porcupine in a game of leapfrog.—Farm and Fireside.

The expression "ship of state" was first used by Machiavelli in his political treatise, "The Prince." It was used by Longfellow in his "Building of the Ship."

Forest "Conversations"

A well-known western Canadian guide, born and bred in the great wide open, has given some intelligent observation of the ways of the four-footed inhabitants of the forests, and he sincerely believes that the lower animals have a form of communicating with each other that cannot be explained at present. He believes that radio will eventually solve the question and be the means of interpreting the animal messages, and he hopes to prove shortly that animals utilize wave lengths outside of the range of the human ear. The cow moose will leave her calf or deer her fawn and tell it in animal language not to stray and the little fellow never disobeys its parent. Also the youngster can in some way communicate with its mother in time of danger without uttering a sound or leaving the spot.

Goldsmith Couldn't Dictate

Dictation is no new thing, though commoner today than of old. A friend of Oliver Goldsmith once suggested to him that he use the services of an amanuensis, to avoid the physical labor of writing. He tried it. It did not work. He paced up and down the room while the amanuensis sat and waited for the words to be set down. At last Goldsmith turned to him, put the agreed-on fee into his hands, and dismissed him with these words: "It won't do, my friend. I find that my head and my hand must work together."

FANCY DISPLAY IS ENLARGED

Mrs. Stephens Expects Next Week's Show To Be Best Ever.

Fred R. Nicholas director of the flower and fancy work display, says that all indications point to one of the biggest displays that has ever been seen in Circleville. Lots of changes have taken place in the Fancy Work Department, according to the chairman, Mrs. E. S. Stephens. Many new premiums have been added this year. A prize will be given for the best hand made rug and also prizes will be awarded for the best needle point work. These are of the many which will be given.

"The fancy work department has enlarged so much," says Mrs. Stephens "that it is necessary to add more premiums, to keep the public-at-large interested." Mrs. Stephens also states that last year there were 40 contestants in one display, while only two prizes could be given. This year many more premiums will be given and then every contestants will be given a more equal chance. The exhibit will be conducted the same place as last year, in the Pythian Castle over Hamilton and Ryan's drug store. Entries will be received until Wednesday, Oct. 16th.

Mrs. Stephens has chosen as her assistants, Mrs. Frank Palm, Mrs. Robert Bates and Mrs. E. L. Sullivan. Prizes will be offered for the best made old quilts, new quilts, bed spreads, pillow cases, sheets, luncheon sets, table covers, library scarfs, handmade pillows, buffet sets, embroidery work, vanity sets, aprons, handkerchiefs and gowns. Prizes will also be offered for the best hand painted wall panels, scarfs, pillows and handkerchiefs.

The new premiums will be the best needlepoint work and the best handmade rug. Entries can be sent to Mrs. Stephens.

The flower show also is rapidly growing and is expected to be bigger and better than ever, according to Mrs. Noah Weaver, chairman. The entries will open Wednesday and close Thursday. All entries must be not less than six cut flowers. Vases will be furnished the contestants at the show room.

Although frost has taken quite a few of the flowers throughout the county during the latter part of September and the first of October, the show is expected to attract greater attention than ever before. Prizes will be awarded for the best vase of Cactus Dahlias, Fancy Dahlias, Flowered Dahlias and Peony Dahlias.

The best vase or basket of Chrysanthemums will receive a prize. Other prizes will be given for the best Marigolds, Cockscomb, Dried Flowers, Roses, Garden Flowers, Zinnias and French Marigolds.

SUPPOSE you are today paying 50c a tube for your tooth paste (and there are many very good dentifrices selling today at that price).

Suppose, like most people, you buy about twelve tubes during a year. Now if you knew that you could buy as good a dentifrice as can be made and still save each year the price of 25 loaves of bread or 60 bars of soap or 40 pounds of sugar or a box of fine cigars—could you conscientiously fail to take advantage of such an opportunity?

That is exactly what you do when you buy Listerine Tooth Paste at 25c for a large tube. Figure it out for yourself.

Canned Soups "Foolproof," Uniform, and Nutritious

By Prudence Goodhue

NO doubt it would be a splendid thing if Mrs. Average Woman had the time, the patience, the talent, and the energy to prepare her meals the way her grandmother did. But under living conditions of today this is neither possible nor desirable. There are too many demands upon her interest, too many labor and time saving devices at hand for primitive methods to exist.

Commercially canned foods have revolutionized the American kitchen and in no case to better advantage than in the canning of soups. Odd as it may seem to the conventionally minded person who has been reared under the old delusion that canned foods are in some mysterious way inferior, canned soups are usually superior to the best of homemade soups. There would be something wrong if this were not true. Manufacturers of canned soups have at their command the talents of the greatest chefs, the greatest chemists and the best scientific laboratories available. The manufacture of soup is not one of a myriad of duties, but the sole occupation and the sole means of earning dividends for the manufacturer. Competition is keen and only the exceptional product can hope to win the race for popular favor.

Added advantages are the convenience, economy (particularly in the elimination of waste), and wide variety. Canned soups are so made as to be virtually "fool proof"—anybody can prepare an appetizing soup from the can.

Moreover, much may be done to add individuality, savor, and richness to the inherent goodness already within the can of soup. For instance, by creaming with thick double rich evaporated milk, one may do much toward imparting added quality and flavor. I have some recipes her which should be very helpful to you. I'm sure.

Cream of Pea Soup
1 1/4 cups boiling water
1 can pea soup (1 1/4 cups)
1 cup evaporated milk
Add boiling water to soup. Scald the evaporated milk with the onion in the top part of a double boiler. Remove onion from milk. Add the soup, sugar and salt, stirring thoroughly. Serve immediately. Yield: 4 servings.

Cream of Asparagus
1 1/4 cups boiling water
1 can asparagus puree (1 1/4 cups)
1 cup evaporated milk
Add water to soup and bring to the boiling point. Scald milk in top part of double boiler. Add soup and seasonings. Reheat if necessary. Yield: 4 servings.

Cream Celery Soup
1 can celery soup (1 1/4 cups)
1 1/4 cups water
1 cup evaporated milk
Combine soup and water and heat to the boiling point. Scald the milk in the top part of a double boiler. Pour the boiling soup into the hot milk, stirring thoroughly. Add celery salt, salt and sugar. Serve immediately. Yield: 4 servings.

Cream of Chicken Soup
2 cans chicken broth (3 cups)
1/2 cup evaporated milk
Heat broth to boiling point, then add evaporated milk and seasonings. Reheat before serving. Yield: 4 servings.

Cream Tomato Soup
1 1/4 cups boiling water
1 can tomato soup (1 1/4 cups)
1 cup evaporated milk
Add water to soup and heat to the boiling point. Scald evaporated milk in top part of double boiler. Remove from fire. Pour tomato soup slowly into hot milk stirring vigorously. Add salt, pepper and sugar. Serve immediately. Yield: 4 servings.

Creamed Soup Combinations
1 can asparagus soup (1 1/4 cups)
1 can chicken broth (1 1/4 cups)
1 cup evaporated milk
Combine soup and broth and heat to the boiling point. Have evaporated milk heated in top part of a double boiler to the scalding point. Add soup to milk, then add seasonings. Reheat if necessary. Yield: 4 servings.

Wants $4,000,000 Damages

Mrs. Bertha Roseaneau, of Pensacola, Fla., has filed suit against the heirs of the estate of the late Lewis Bear for a fifth share in the Lewis Bear Company and profits that have accrued over a period of 34 years. The fifth of the estate and thirty-four years' interest is estimated to be worth $4,000,000. She claims to be the daughter of Louie Bear, whose sons have run the business since their father's death, 34 years ago.

Marks Birthplace of Father of Locomotive

At Wylain, on the north bank of the River Tyne, under the auspices of the Institution of Shipbuilders and Mechanical Engineers, a tablet commemorates the birthplace of a man who achieved the seemingly impossible, George Stephenson, the father of the steam locomotive engine. Past the front of his cottage, within a few yards of the door, heavily laden and light trails of cool trucks pass today, as did the tiny children wagons drawn by horses along plate-ways 150 years ago. The cottage itself is a two-story house, typical of many of those built years ago by the colliery owners for their employees. It was divided into four rooms, in each of which a different family dwelt. The lower room at the western side of the cottage was the home of the Stephenson family, and it was in this room, which served for sleeping, eating and shelter, that George, the second son of a family of four boys and two girls, was born on June 9, 1781. "Old Bob," George Stephenson's father, was a Scotsman who crossed the border as a gentleman's servant, and then married a local lassie, Mabel Carr, the daughter of a dyer. "Bob" found work as fireman of the pumping engine of the Wylain colliery at 12 shillings ($3) per week. — Edinburgh Scotsman.

Now Is Time for All Good Wives to Raid the Garden

By Prudence Goodhue
FRESH from the garden, NOW—beans, beets, cabbage, corn, cauliflower, cucumbers, cantaloupe, potatoes, tomatoes, peas, squash, spinach, sweet potatoes, onions, radishes, watermelon, carrots—just to mention a few of them. The healthfulness of green vegetables has been abouted from the housewife for ten years or more, so I think that point may be conceded. An idea I would like to impress upon everybody today is that no matter how healthful a dish may be it will fall in its purpose unless it is appetizing in appearance, odor and taste; in short, unless it is attractive enough to be eaten. The art of cooking vegetables is far from simple, if one is to attain the utmost of flavor, appearance, and nutrition. Often the latter is sacrificed for appearance and flavor. Good flavor plus all the food values of milk may be obtained in creaming your vegetables. Use evaporated milk here because of its concentration. It will give you a doubly rich dish.

Here are some suggested recipes that should be particularly timely.

- Menu No. 1
Cream of Tomato Soup
Mashed Potatoes
Green Beans with Cheese Sauce
Buttered Beets
Whole Wheat Bread Preserved Ginger Cookies
- Menu No. 2
Beet and Onion Relish
Escalloped Potatoes
Boiled Spinach with Poached Egg
Buttered Lima Beans and Carrots
Tomato-Cucumber Salad
Butter
Peach Cobbler

Cream of Tomato Soup
2 1/2 cups tomatoes
2 sprigs parsley
1/2 tsp. thyme
1/2 bay leaf
1/2 tsp. peppercorns
4 cloves
1 large slice onion
1/2 tsp. sugar
1/2 tsp. salt
1 1/2 cups thin white sauce

Boil tomatoes with all seasonings 5 minutes, then rub through a sieve. Pour tomato mixture slowly into hot white sauce when ready to serve, stirring to blend well. Yield: 4 servings (3 1/2 cups).

Green Beans with Cheese Sauce
1 1/2 cups tender green beans
1/2 cup butter
1/2 lb. American cheese

String and wash beans and cook in boiling salted water until tender. (If canned beans are used boil in their own liquid 5 minutes.) Drain. Melt butter in a saucepan, add cheese cut fine, heat slowly until melted, then add evaporated milk and continue heating until well blended. Pour over hot beans and sprinkle with paprika. Yield: 6 servings.

Cole Slaw
3/4 tsp. salt
Dash pepper
1/2 cup sugar
3 cups finely shaved cabbage

Add salt, pepper, and sugar to cabbage. Add vinegar or lemon juice to milk, then add to cabbage. Keep cold until ready to serve. Yield: 6 servings.

Escalloped Potatoes
6 medium potatoes
2 tsp. salt
Pepper
1/2 cup cheese
1/2 cup butter

Peel potatoes and cut into 1/4 inch slices. Cut cross-wise into 1/4 inch slices, not cutting the slices completely off and leaving all slices joined together at the bottom. Cut tomatoes in 1/4 inch slices, and insert one piece in between each slice of cucumber. This causes the cucumber to spread out in a fan-shape. Place on a bed of lettuce leaves and serve with French or Creamy Salad Dressing. Yield: 4 servings.

Tomato-Cucumber Salad
1 large cucumber
2 small round red tomatoes
1/2 cup cucumber and cut into 1/4 inch sections. Cut cross-wise into 1/4 inch slices, not cutting the slices completely off and leaving all slices joined together at the bottom. Cut tomatoes in 1/4 inch slices, and insert one piece in between each slice of cucumber. This causes the cucumber to spread out in a fan-shape. Gentile Cook Can Learn Much From Kosher Chef

By Prudence Goodhue
WE have often thought that the Gentile cook could borrow much of wisdom and art from the Jewish home maker. Five thousand years of tradition, the longest unbroken racial heritage in the world, have given to the Jewish cook a rich store of culinary lore. Prepared after a manner rigidly prescribed by religious ritual, kosher foods have the advantage of being wholesome, appetizing and above all things clean and pure. The Jewish race had its origin in a hot semi-tropical land, where food spoils quickly and death and disease follow violation of nature's laws. The religious laws which guide the preparation of Jewish foods came into being not only as a rite, but also to protect the health and well being of the nation—and this many centuries before the modern knowledge of sanitation was dreamed of. How well they wrought, those fathers of an ancient race, is to be seen today in the large cities of the United States where Gentiles through the kosher restaurants.

These recipes I have gathered from kosher cooks and I am passing them on to the attention more particularly of Gentiles than of Jews.

Pfeffernuesse
1 pint corn syrup
1 pint New Orleans molasses
1/2 lb. butter
3 cups lemon juice
1 tsp. grated lemon rind
1/2 lb. brown sugar
1/2 cup chopped fine nuts
Heat syrup until warm, add butter and rest of ingredients in order given. Mix thoroughly then roll into balls about the size of a marble. Brush balls with white egg and bake until brown in a medium oven (375° F.). Will keep indefinitely. Yield: 6 lbs. or 200 balls.

Matzo Fritters
1 egg yolk
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup evaporated milk
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup matzo meal
Beat the egg yolk, add the sugar and diluted milk. Stir in matzo meal to make a thin batter. Carefully fold in the stiffly beaten egg white. Allow water to run over the matzo, then place in hot oven for a minute. Heat fat in skillet. Spread batter on one side of matzo and fry batter side down until nicely browned. Spread batter on other side and brown. Serve hot, sprinkled with powdered sugar. Yield: 4 servings.

Feather Trapped Thief

Few women have "broken the bank" at Monte Carlo, but of those who have done so the most amazing was Baroness Groner—she did so twice in one evening! As she left the tables and started walking toward the restaurant, two hands shot out from behind some ferns and clutched her by the throat, while her ostrich feather handbag was snatched. Detectives could find no trace of the thieves.

Later, in the restaurant, she caught sight of a single ostrich feather on the top of a man's trousers. He and his companion were searched, and the Baroness's winnings were found in the girl's stocking.

Listeners Didn't Quite Get Shades of Meaning

It all depends upon how you say it. There was once a clergyman by the name of Twitchell. In the pulpit he maintained a gravity of manner and expression, but out of the pulpit was a regular fellow. Occasionally he would, if the emergency required, introduce something queer in a sermon for the sake of arousing the attention of the congregation.

One Sunday, seeing that his hearers were becoming sleepy, he paused in his sermon and said: "Brethren, you haven't any idea of the sufferings of our missionaries in the new settlements on account of the mosquitoes. The mosquitoes in some of these regions are enormous. A great many of them would weigh a pound, and they will get on the legs and bark when the missionaries are going along."

By this time all ears and eyes were open and he proceeded to finish his discourse. The next day one of the church members called him to account for telling lies in the pulpit.

"There never was a mosquito that weighed a pound," he said.

"But," replied the minister, "I didn't say one of them would weigh a pound; I said a great many, and I think a million of them would."

"But you said that they barked at the missionaries."

"No, no, brother; I said they would get on the legs and bark,"—Boston Herald.

Birds That Cannot Walk

All members of the swallow family are distinguished by their small, weak feet which are used only for clinging and perching purposes. They cannot walk or hop on the ground. These birds spend more of their time on the wing than other birds and they feed chiefly on insects they catch while in flight. Even water is scooped from ponds by the birds on the wing. Barn swallows and purple martins are the most common species of this family in America.

Milk from Grocery Shelf Keeps Food Budget Down

By Prudence Goodhue

WHEN the price of food bounds upward so fast that it seems to take a Rocky Mountain goat to keep up with it, it behooves the housewife to know how much she is getting for her money.

Cost of food has risen from 40 to 65 per cent in various parts of the United States since the first investigation in 1913, according to the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics in a recently issued bulletin. That most important single source of nutriment, milk, has increased in average price from 8.9 cents to 14.2 cents a quart. Yet no housewife who must be economical, but who knows the value of milk as a food, would think of cutting down on the milk supply as a means of adding pennies to the radio fund or merely of keeping the budget from bulging in the wrong place.

Only Water is Missing

But in this case there is a way of spending your money and having it too. While bottled milk has leaped 8.9 cents to 14.2 cents, an increase of 64 per cent in price, evaporated milk has actually decreased from an average of 12.2 cents to 11.1 cents for a 16 ounce can, the equivalent of a quart of market milk. In the one-pound can, the housewife and her family get all the milk solids and all the butter fat contained in a quart of the more expensive product. Only water is missing—40 per cent of it is lost in the process of evaporation. Water can readily be replaced from the kitchen faucet, and who wants to pay for hauling it from the dairy farm to the consumer's city kitchen?

In evaporated milk, because it is more than twice as concentrated as ordinary milk, we find just as much nutritional value packed into the one-pound can, holding only about a pint, as in the quart of bottled milk. We find about the same nutritional food value in the two containers, in fact a little more in the tin, and we get greater value in this less expensive one.

In 48 cities out of the 51 contained in the report of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, evaporated milk was cheaper than bottled milk. In one of the three remaining cities an equal price was reported and the difference in price in the other two cities was only one-tenth of a cent. But in most cities of the United States the differences in favor of evaporated milk are large enough to make a real saving. In Jacksonville, Florida, market milk averages 23.3 cents a quart but a pound can of evaporated milk is 11 cents. In Houston, Texas, 10.5 cents buys a can of evaporated milk while market milk is 15 cents. Fifteen cents is the price of a quart of milk in Los Angeles but evaporated milk retails for an average price of 10 cents. Even in New York, in the midst of the eastern dairy country, evaporated milk is only 10.5 cents against 16 cents a quart for the bottled variety.

Milk Essential

Nutrition experts agree that milk is an absolute essential in the diet. The budget does not always agree that at least one pint, better a quart, per person, can be included. But the wise housewife lets her grocer also be her milkman and keeps her dairy on the pantry shelf in the form of evaporated milk which she can buy more cheaply and keep more conveniently than any other form of milk. The pantry-shelf dairy, well stocked with evaporated milk, never yields sour milk at inconvenient moments or no milk at unexpected ones.

An elderly couple were getting married at the little country church. The groom was very deaf.

When the clergyman read, "Wilt thou have this woman to be thy wedded wife?" the old man did not hear him, and asked his bride "What's he say?"

The old lady howled in his ear, "He wants to know if tha'll ha' me for thy wedded wife?"

The old man looked surprised and exclaimed: "Why, sartainly, Mary, dear! Didn't I tell thee so 'tother neet?"

Right-of-Way

The movement to clear the tracks for genius brought a snort of derision from the famous California editor David Starr Jordan, "Genius," he declared, "recognizes no obstacles. That is part of the genius. He who must have his way made smooth is but an ordinary mortal."

"Looking back over a long period, it is my opinion that the world always turns aside to let any man pass who knows where he is going."

Waggoner Gets Fifteen Years

A dazed, dejected man stood before Federal Judge Coleman and heard sentence passed on him—"Fifteen years in Atlanta." To the surprise of the court, the prosecution, the hundreds of spectators and even his own counsel, he had just admitted his guilt and insisted on putting himself on the mercy of the court. Charles D. Waggoner, fifty-six, head of the only bank in Telluride, Colo., financial adviser and custodian of the savings of the few thousand persons in that little town that had once flourished with two prosperous industries—mining and cattle—honored, trusted and held in good repute, now a numbered felon.

The Culpit

"My dear," remarked Mr. Pitt, as he sat at breakfast one morning, "I think there was a burglar in the house last night."

"Why do you think that?" asked his loving wife.

"Well," said he, "I left a lot of money in my pockets before I went to bed last night, but there's none there now."

"That's your own fault," she replied snappily. "You should have got up and shot the person. If you hadn't been such a coward, you wouldn't have lost your money."

"Yes, perhaps you're right, my dear; but then I didn't want to be come a widower."—London Weekly Telegraph.

Patience Is a Virtue

A rather unusual man once said to the writer: "I let most of my mail lie on my desk 30 days unanswered. After that time I generally find little of it needs to be answered." This habit is not without its drawbacks, but there is something in it. Most of the things that worry us are really trivial. If we had the patience to go slowly, to let them wait, to hold our tongue so many things would settle themselves. So many things we argue about and even quarrel about would disappear if left alone.—Philadelphia Star.

Applause for Workers in Physical Research

I salute the workers in physical research as the poets of today. It may be that they do not write in verse, but their communications are of such lively interest that they are on the front pages of our newspapers and command space in agricultural periodicals. They appeal to the imagination of us all. They contribute the warming glow of inspiration to industry, and when industry pulls their ideas down from the heavens to the earth and harnesses them for practical service it, too, feels that it is an important actor, not only in the making of things but on the larger stage of the human spirit. There may be enough poetry in the whirl of our machines so that our machine age will become immortal.—Owen D. Young.

ALL SET FOR 26TH ANNUAL PUMPKIN SHOW

To Put On Interesting Act At Court House Each Evening.

"Push the button and the show will start off with a boom," says T. F. Jeffries who has charge of soliciting, advertising, lighting, and locating concessions and displays.

T. O. Gilliland who has charge of the soliciting says that everything is ready. According to Mr. Gilliland, the Rotary Club was the chief helper for his cause. Almost every member got out thru the country and solicited business for the big event.

Better Lighting

C. T. Gilmore, boss of the lighting, reports that all the lights have been strung for the big event and the show will be illuminated as never before. The electric light men will also be on hand Monday, Tuesday and practically all the week to string wires for the different booths at the show.

K. J. Herrmann in charge of the advertising says that advertising for the big event was represented in every paper in the county. Advertising was sent to many out-of-the-county papers. Numbers of posters have been displayed in poles. Among advertising which caught the eye of many were the large signs pasted on large bill posters all over the county.

E. C. Friece who has charge of locating all concessions and displays also reports that undoubtedly all space will be taken before Wednesday, as in previous years.

The first booth for the Pumpkin show was being constructed Saturday for Mason Brothers Furniture Store. This is nothing unusual as almost every year since the Pumpkin Show was started, Mason's have always set their booth which will display the latest styles in stoves and furniture into space before anyone else. The construction of this booth will probably act as an alarm clock Monday morning when hammers, nails and lumber will be pounded together for four days to serve the people of Circleville and Pickaway-co.

According to E. C. Friece who has charge of locating these booths he expects that on Tuesday evening every bit of space in the business district will act for this purpose.

ROUND-THE-WORLD PAJAMA GIRLS

People to whom a world cruise or any other long winter voyage is an experience yet to be enjoyed may wonder what those more fortunate folk do to pass the time while they are sailing the Seven Seas. It may interest the stay-at-homes to know that the time spent on these pleasure jaunts rarely hangs heavy, for all sorts of diversions are planned for the entertainment of the globe-trotters. The bridge fiend has his bridge parties, the amateur photographer his camera expeditions and the dancer his dancing, but one of the most fascinating of all, to the fair sex, at least, is that of purchasing and trying on costumes typical of the various far-off lands visited. Pictured above, for instance, is a bevy of beauties photographed aboard the world-cruising Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of Australia" en route from China to Japan during her 1928-29 annual round the world cruise. They are blossoming out in dazzling pajama suits which they purchased in the Orient. This collection of pseudo-Chinese maidens must have caused many a masculine heart to miss a beat or two! The other group of ladies are wearing mandarin coats acquired during an earlier trip around the world.

At practically every port of importance it is possible for passengers who are so inclined to purchase some little memento, be it a shawl, a miniature Buddha, a ring, a native doll, a walking stick or other souvenir of their travels. During a world cruise of the "Empress of Scotland" several years ago a cruise member from Denver, Col., purchased a toy elephant for each member of the Denver Kiwanis Club of which he was a member and posed with his collection of pachyderms for the vessel's corps of amateur photographers. Spanish shawls, parasols and many other articles complete the list of possibilities for globe-trotters with a penchant for collecting.

The "Empress of Australia" will sail again on a globe-girdling voyage, leaving New York December 2, 1929, for a cruise of 137 days.

"A Better Place To Buy"

Long Enough

After an hour or more, Pat, the new clerk in the animal store, was becoming exceedingly irritated at the fastidiousness of his customer.

Dog after dog had been brought from its kennel and exhibited to the man, its points discussed, and the price fixed, but something was wrong with each of them.

Finally Pat brought a dachshund. The customer turned away in disgust.

"His legs are too short," he said bitterly.

"Too short, are they?" cried Pat, now thoroughly roused. "Sure, they reach the ground, don't they?"

Saved Clay Pigeons

A Richmond (Va.) sportsman returned from abroad and told of his visit to a clay pigeon shoot. Arriving at the traps he was surprised to see a great net spread above the ground at the far end of the field. Around the net stood a ring of boys. The mystery was solved with the first few shots. Nearly all the clay pigeons that the marksmen missed fell into the net unbroken. Those that missed the net were "caught on the wing" by the boys and brought back to the traps to be shot over again. The shoot was in Scotland.—Indianapolis News.

Opussum's Pouch

The opussum is the only American animal that belongs to the class of marsupials or pouched animals. There are usually two litters a year and from five to fourteen to a litter. According to the investigations of Dr. Carl Hartman of the University of Texas, an authority on the subject, the young are born undeveloped or in embryo form and crawl by their own efforts into the pouch of the mother. There they remain for 65 to 75 days, never leaving the pouch and depending entirely upon the mother. Even after they are able to provide for themselves and leave the pouch, they may return there or may attach themselves to the mother's hump or tail.

Biblical Unicorns

In Latin and Greek literature the unicorn is a fabulous beast having the head and body of a horse, the hind legs of an antelope, the tail of a lion, and the beard of a goat. Its chief feature was a long, sharp and twisted horn set in the middle of the forehead. Obviously the word "unicorn" as used in early translations of the Bible refers to a different animal. It probably refers to the Crux, an extinct species of buffalo. The revised version uses "wild ox" in the places where the King James version employs "unicorn."

PALLENBERG BEARS REAL ATTRACTION

Committee's Report Soliciting, Advertising, Lighting Ready To Go.

An annual event in amusement and education where both young and old join for the common purpose of having a good time is the Circleville Pumpkin Show, which will be held this year, on October 16, 17, 18, 19.

The choice of Free attractions has received careful consideration. The local committee having completed arrangements for a list of headline attractions. One of the principal acts to be seen here is the "Pallenberg Bears." Pallenberg, the owner of these bicycle bears is without doubt, the peer of animal trainers and has produced an act which has long been featured with Ringling Brothers and Barnum-Bailey Circus.

These clumsy, good natured animals go through a routine of stunts and tricks with amazing cleverness and are as docile as lambs in obeying the orders of their trainer. The bears are expert roller skaters, stilt walkers and create much amusement with their funny antics, riding a hobby horse, turning somersaults, football, pushball and many other antics which will prove great delight to the kiddies.

ceded to be the most novel animal performance on tour this season. This act will appear at the Court House.

Moral in This Short Story of Absent-Mindedness

A Los Angeles real estate dealer, in addressing a group of salesmen said:

"Explain all the documents and make the prospective customer read and understand them. Never let a man sign who doesn't know exactly what he's signing. Never let a customer find himself in the position of the doctor I met on my last trip to Honolulu."

"I've seen a good many changes, the man told me and added, 'I used to be a prosperous doctor but owing to one little slip, most of my patients have deserted me.'"

"What was the slip?" I inquired.

"Well, sir," replied the doctor, "in filling in a death certificate for a patient who had died, I did not notice that the printed form had been altered so I absent-mindedly signed my name in the space headed 'cause of death.'—Los Angeles Times.

Treatment for Botulism

Botulism is poisoning from infected ripe olives, preserved fruit and vegetables. The symptoms and treatment, according to the Red Cross textbook on first aid, are similar to those of food poisoning. The person afflicted becomes sick at the stomach. His skin is cold and clammy, his pulse weak and there are severe pains in the abdomen and often eruptions of the skin. The treatment is to administer castor oil or epsom salts and a teaspoonful of charcoal, and send for a doctor.

Planning Will Help Keep Kitchen Cool On Hot Days

By Prudence Goodhue

OLD luncheons on hot days are colorful days of the autumn to come they will also be a welcome change. There is plenty of warm weather yet in store for us before the snow flies. It was with this thought in mind that I have prepared these suggested foods for the cold luncheon.

In preparing this meal it should be the aim of the housewife to avoid the heat of cooking as much as possible. Cooking in warm weather should be planned so that heat from the stove be eliminated during much of the day.

The best time to use the stove is during the cool of the morning so that it is not called into use when the house is apt to become too warm for cooking comfort. Foods which later may be served cold are best cooked at that time.

Here are some ideas for cold luncheons and cool cooking:

Menu No. 1
Half Cantaloupe
Sliced Pickled Tongue
Potato Salad
Sliced Tomatoes
Fresh Cherry Cobbler Iced Cocoa

Menu No. 2
Cold Consomme
Pineapple Cheese Salad
Hard Cooked Eggs
Hard Rolls Butter

Cold Chocolate Blanc Manger with Chocolate Topping
Potato Salad

3 cups sliced or 1/2 cup crisp bacon, diced potatoes 2 cups evaporated milk 1 1/2 tsp. chopped onion 1 1/2 cups cooked salad dressing 1/2 cup vinegar

The potatoes should be boiled or steamed, and well seasoned in cooking. Slice thick or thin, across or lengthwise, or cut into one-half inch dice. Mix lightly with onion, cucumber, bacon and salad dressing. Let stand 1 hour in a cold place. When ready to serve, garnish with hard-cooked eggs cut in wedges. Yield: 6 servings.

Cooked Salad Dressing
1 tsp. salt 2 tsp. butter
1 tsp. mustard 1/2 cup evaporated milk 1/2 cup vinegar
2 tsp. flour 1/2 cup boiling water
2 tsp. sugar 1/4 cup vinegar
2 egg yolks beaten

Mix dry ingredients in top of double boiler. Add egg yolks, then butter and diluted milk gradually, stirring constantly to keep smooth. Cook over hot water 15 minutes. Remove from fire. Cool and add vinegar. Yield: 1 1/2 cups.

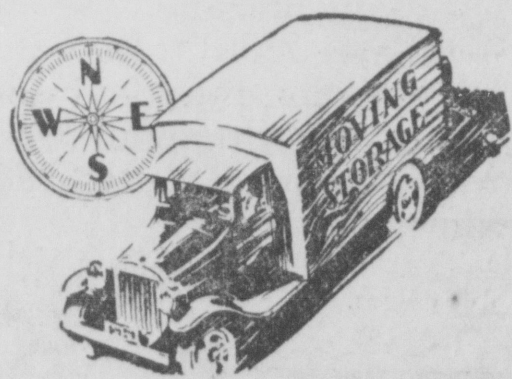

Odd Scottish Structure

John O'Grout's house was located on a spot on Duncansby road, the northeast extremity of the mainland of Scotland, marking one of the limits of that country. It is also the terminus of automobile and cycling record rides from Land's End, Cornwall, which is the southwest extremity of England, a distance of 394 miles. According to tradition, in order to settle a family dispute as to precedence an eight-sided house with a door and window in each side, which contained an eight-sided table, gave each of the eight brothers of the O'Grout family the power to enter his own house and eat at his own table in company with his brothers.

Spruce Spikes as Rivals

The spruce tree has a penchant for symmetrical lines which causes it to go through an unusual contest if, by some mishap, the top-most spike is broken off. When this happens all of the spikes leading out to the side from the joint at which the upstanding spike was attached begin to curve upward. This continues for some time with each apparently endeavoring to be the "king branch." Eventually one attains this rank, and the others almost immediately begin to droop and resume their former lateral positions.

French Town Center of World's Perfume Supply

It is in the belt of sun-soaked fields stretching from Cannes to Nice, France, where the true flowers wage incessant war against the coarse chemical odors of Germany.

The French are the world's expert perfumers. The little town of Grasse, tucked away in the heart of the Maritime Alps, is the most famous center of the industry, where all the perfumes of Europe are born. From January to December the roses work by a sort of floral calendar, for flowers bloom in their millions the whole year through.

Violets, jonquills, narcissus, golden mimosa, pignonette, spice-laden carnations, geranium, orange flower, lavender, spanish broom, tuberoses and acacia with its blossoms of orange catapillars.

Most of all, from May to July, the rose holds sway—then jasmine queens it. Jasmine, the only scent that cannot be obtained by a cunning mixture of other flower odors; jasmine, when mixed, often produces profound depression and exhaustion.

There are gardens everywhere, with millions of flowers for the making of scent.

The quantities are indeed stupendous. During September, anything up to a thousand tons of lavender, aspic and tuberose blossoms are collected and distilled. The average weight of blossoms gathered in a single summer is about 6,000 tons. Several million flowers are required to make a ton, so that the total number of flowers may be anything up to sixty thousand million!

Analyzing Law

The true view, as I submit, is that the law is what the judges declare; that statutes, precedents, the opinions of learned experts, customs and morality are the sources of the law; that back of everything lie the opinions of the ruling spirits of the community, who have the power to close any of these sources; but that as long as they do not interfere, the judges, in establishing law, have recourse to these sources.—John Chipman Gray.

The Word "Anecdote"

Today we know that the word "anecdote" simply refers to a pithy account of any incident, usually a short entertaining narrative.

Originally, however, an anecdote was a secret history, a sort of a subrosa story of unpublished events, this significance being indicated by its root source.

It is in this sense that it is used, for instance, by Procopius in his portrayal of the private life of Justinian and Theodora.—Kansas City Star.

"Swine and Poultry Exhibit To Be As Big As Ever," Says J. D. Hummel

Pens To Be Located Opposite Court House Following Annual Custom.

"Our department will be bigger and better than ever this year," says J. D. Hummel, director of the swine and poultry exhibit. Twenty-four new coops have been purchased for the poultry exhibit and the chairman, Bryce Briggs, is looking forward to one of the biggest entries ever received in recent years. This exhibit will be in the same place as in previous years, in front of the Court House. All entries are to be sent to Bryce Briggs, county auditor.

The swine exhibit will be conducted in a huge tent on E. High-st. H. J. Briggs acting as chairman. All entries are to be sent to him and he will make arrangements with contestants. No changes have taken place in either department this year, according to Mr. J. D. Hummel.

In the poultry exhibit, awards will be given for the best—White Rocks, Buff Rocks, S. C. Rhode Island Reds, R. C. Rhode Island Reds, White Orpington, Buff Orpington, White Leghorns, Brown Leghorns, Campines, Game, Houdans, Langshans, Minorcas, Brahmas, Anconas, Hamburgs, Cochins. Together with these, prizes will also be offered for the best pair of Bronze, Bourbon Red, White, Slate and Narragansett Turkeys. The best display of Fancy Pigeons will also receive a prize. The best trio of Belgian Hares, Flemish Giants, White and Chinchilla rabbits will be given prizes.

In the swine exhibit, prizes will be awarded for the best—Poland China, Duroc Jersey and Chester White boars, the best Yorkshire and Tamworth boars and sows

"Conversational" Dinner

One night at the White House during the Presidency of Theodore Roosevelt there met at dinner John Hay (then secretary of state), Sir Martin Conway, Walter Wellman, James Ford Rhodes, the historian, and, of course, President Roosevelt. Next day Hay and Rhodes met again and the following conversation ensued:

Rhodes—That was a nice conversational dinner we had at the White House last night.

Hay—Conversational do you call it? How long were we at the table?

Rhodes—About two hours.

Hay—Well, Wellman talked a minute, Sir Martin a minute and a half, you a minute and I not more than that, and Theodore talked all the rest of the time. Do you call that conversation?—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Gibraltar's Composition

The Rock of Gibraltar is not composed of chalk, but is chiefly a very compact limestone, generally stratified. Above it are layers of shale and grit. The Rock contains several caves, one of which extends over 400 feet into its interior.

May Succeed Huggins

Reports are current that "Eddie" Collins, former star of the Philadelphia Athletics, will be selected to manage the New York Yankees filling the vacancy caused by the death of Miller Huggins.

Words Handed Down

In the word magic we have a reminiscence of the Persian "Magi," mighty prophets and interpreters of dreams, of whom three were said to have found their way to Bethlehem. Words which come to us from the Roman religion are cereal, genius, fete, fortune, fury, grace, June, mint, money, Saturday, vesta, contemplate, sacrifice, temple, augury and auspice. Vampire is an unpleasant Slavonic word brought back from the East by travelers in the Eighteenth century. Tahoo, tattoo and kangaroo came to us with Captain Cook from the Pacific.—Exchange.

Republic of Mind

In the republic of mind, one is a majority. There, all are monarchs, and all are equals. The tyranny of a majority even is unknown. Each one is crowned, scented and throned. Upon every brow is the tiara, and around every brow is the imperial purple. Only those are good citizens who express their honest thoughts, and those who persecute for opinion's sake are the only traitors. There, nothing is considered infamous except an appeal to brute force, and nothing sacred but love, liberty and joy.—Robert Ingersoll.

Woman Rules Home

I believe, as men generally do, that mothers are most responsible for management of children. It is in the nature of things: in their formative years, children are much more with mothers than with fathers. While the father is away hunting a dollar or a deer, he can not possibly also control the children, and is somewhat incapable when he returns, and his wife says: "I can do nothing with them; you try it."—E. W. Howe's Monthly.

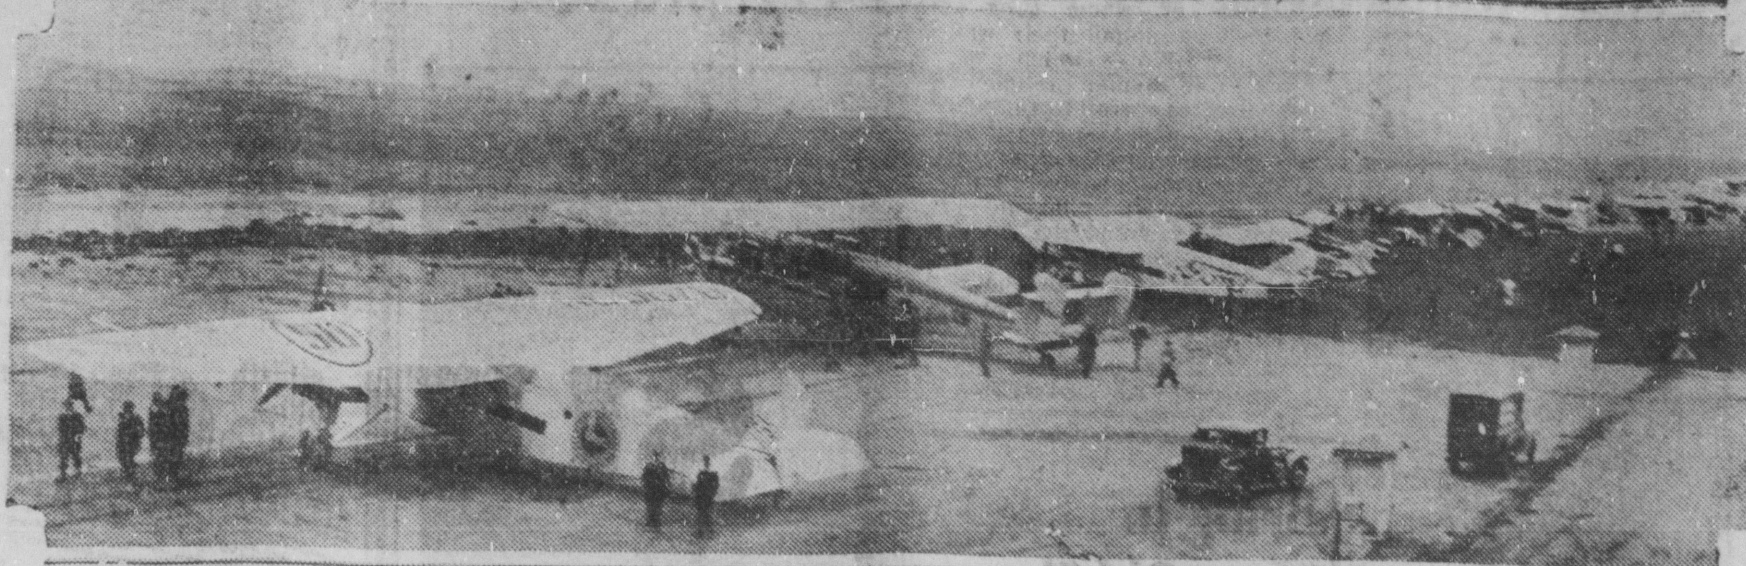

Popularizing Aviation

Stormvogel, translated as storm bird or stormy petrel, is the name of the gigantic national German organization for the purpose of bringing flying within the reach of the masses.

Still Much to Learn

The learning and knowledge that we have is at the most but little compared with that of which we are ignorant.—Plato.

Cheers Start Fliers on Second Leg of National Air Tour

"Contact!" cried the mechanics and as the starter's flag dropped these twenty-nine planes left Roosevelt Field, Long Island, on the second leg of the National Air Tour. Thirty-five of the principal cities will be visited.

Took Pessimistic View of Wire Communication

A number of prominent men of Professor Morse's period were dubious about the practicability of the telegraph and believed it to have very restricted limits. In view of the development of this form of communication and its present high efficiency it is interesting to note some of these early comments. J. Fenimore Cooper, author of the famous Leatherstocking Tales, wrote to Morse on January 31, 1838, as follows: "My dear friend: I wish you all success with the telegraph, which might be made very useful for long distances. Your difficulty will be in communicating between more than two stations, for half a dozen sparks traveling on the same wire will play the devil with the registers." The Western Union to-day sends as many as eight messages over one wire at the same time by ingenious automatic devices.

Money's Real Meaning

Money in itself means nothing. It is only a medium of exchange. How much you get in your pay envelope each week depends on what you have to offer and are willing to give in exchange for it. You are your own paymaster.—Grit.

The Lesser Evil

Better a hundred times an honest and capable administration of an erroneous policy than a corrupt and incapable administration of a good one.—Phelps.

Boy and Girl Club Winners To Get Trip Through Ohio State University

M. C. Warren, Director, Expects Club Work Exhibit To Attract Attention.

Boys' and girls' club work will also be on display at the 26th annual Pumpkin Show and is expected to catch as many eyes as any other exhibit. The Pumpkin Show society is offering four special premiums to boys and girls throughout the county consisting of trips to Club Congress at Ohio State University. Many other prizes in cash will also be awarded. According to M. C. Warren there are but few changes in this year's department.

All prizes will be awarded on a competitive basis consistent with these rules: In the pig club the following points will be taken into consideration when the awards are made: Individuality, Rate of Gain, Methods of Breeding and Record and Story. Prizes will be offered in Food Club exhibits, Clothing Club, Corn Club, Poultry Club and Calf Club.

A pennant will be given to the best Demonstration team in the county, which will show at the Farm Bureau office. All these clubs will be known as they will be marked at the different exhibits. The poultry club will be with the rest of the poultry contestants in front of the Court House, while all the rest of the clubs will be at the respective displays and exhibits.

The corn, poultry and calf clubs are to be grouped so as to determine the Club Congress Trip winner on account of small representations in these clubs. The following points will be considered as to winners: Yield, Profit, Exhibit and Story.

In case one exhibitor wins more than one trip of a kind it will be given to one having the next highest score. All prize winners must be exhibitors.

No boy or girl having won one trip previous to this exhibit will be eligible to another trip of the same kind.

Scions of Ancient Race of Mayas Still Exist

Representatives of the ancient Maya race still live at Cozumel, nine miles off the coast of Yucatan, Mexico. They are direct descendants of that half fabulous and mighty race which built the ruined wonder cities of Yucatan which offered human hearts to Kukulkan, the feathered serpent god at Uxmal; which hung sacrificial maidens decked with jade and gold and flowers, into the deep subterranean pool at Chichen-Itza. Having seen those mystery cities, those sacrificial altars and that pool it gives you a start—as if you had miraculously pulled aside the curtain of time—to behold Maya faces in the living flesh, faces that we so often call Aztec. Yet there on Cozumel those faces still exist by the hundreds. A short and stocky race, almost beardless and with coarse black hair, they remind you of the Japanese. Though all memory of their former imperial glory has utterly departed, they still speak the ancient Maya tongue, spoken for thousands of years before the Spanish conquest. This tongue, by the way, is one of the very few aboriginal languages that have stood off a white man's speech. Even today, Spanish controls only the cities of Yucatan. The country at large still conducts its business—especially the chicle business—in Maya, and on Cozumel you hear it everywhere.

Church Constructed to Resemble Giant Organ

Scattered throughout the civilized world are churches of varying degrees of beauty—some small, some large and lofty, some with towering spires, others with beautiful domes, of exquisite glass windows—but perhaps the most unusual and original church in existence today is to be seen in Copenhagen. The whole edifice is shaped like a giant organ outlined against the sky, and at first sight is almost overwhelming. One almost expects to hear music coming from the pipes that constitute the roof of this wonderful building, so natural is the effect.

While on the subject of Copenhagen, another curious sight to be seen in the city is a tower that rises above the Church of Our Savior. This remarkable tower is 288 feet high, and is built like a corkscrew, round which are steps on the outside, leading to the top! This tower was built in 1696, and has long been a special feature of the city.

Pointer for Executives

If you encountered no difficulties the office boy could take your place.—B. C. Forbes.

Wise Parent Will Stay Young With Children

Whatever else parents do, let them hold fast to imagination. If they have ever believed in fairies, let them not shut the fairy people out now. Let them not make growing up like traveling along a level road where everything must eventually disappear behind the horizon, but let them make it like the ascent of a steep hill, where the view constantly widens as one goes higher and nothing once seen is ever again shut out. Then they will never say to their children, "You're too young to understand," and what is quite as important, their children will never need to say of them, "They're too old to understand." What is even more important, they will never reach the deadly dull state of being completely grown up, because they will realize that if we have wings we can never reach the place where we cannot go higher.—Parents' Magazine.

French Recipes Will Banish Monotony From American Diet

By: CHARLES SCOTTO, Chef, Ambassador Hotel, Park Avenue, New York City.

BRILLAT-SAVARIN, one of the world's most famous epicures, once said that the discovery of a new dish is more beneficial to humanity than a new star. The majority of American housewives, racked with the necessity of planning three meals a day for 365 days throughout the year, would almost certainly agree with him.

While entirely new dishes are rare indeed, it is still possible for any woman to find among the recipes of foreign lands a variety of dishes that will be new to her and her family. A study of French recipes, alone, will provide her with ample means of escaping the deadly accusation of monotony which, with more or less justice, has been leveled at the American menu. French methods of seasoning, including the use of a little sugar to enhance the flavors of vegetables, will enable her to arouse envy in the hearts of less knowing cooks.

Spinach A La Touraine—Put a

peck of washed spinach in a saucepan with one and a half cups of water and one teaspoon of sugar. Cook for twenty minutes. Drain and press through a colander. Mix in three-quarters teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon paprika, and two tablespoons butter. Heat again and then press firmly into a bowl to mold. Turn the spinach out upside down on a platter, garnish with slices of lemon and hard-boiled egg, and serve immediately.

Carrots Vichy—Cut a dozen young carrots in half, lengthwise. Remove the centers. Then mince them fine and put them in a saucepan with an ounce of butter, a teaspoon of sugar, and a pinch of salt. Moisten with French vichy water and let them cook slowly until tender. Serve immediately, and very hot.

New Peas With Lettuce—Chop one-half of a medium-size onion. Cut fine (in Julienne) one small head of lettuce. Fry the onion with a little butter until lightly browned. Add the lettuce and let simmer together for a few minutes. Then add a quart of fresh peas, a teaspoon of sugar, a half ounce of butter, salt and pepper. Moisten with water, cover the pan, and let cook slowly. When the peas are tender, add an ounce of butter mixed with a teaspoon of flour.

Whitman's "Ballyhoo"

Walt Whitman, writes Harvey Higgins in Harper's Magazine, at the time his first book of poems appeared, ballyhooed himself anonymously. In the American Threological Journal as the "baughest of writers that has ever yet written and printed a book." And in the United States and Democratic Review, 1855, he hailed himself anonymously, as "one of the roughs large, proud, affectionate, his costume manly and free, his face sun-burnt and bearded, his postures strong and erect."

Acidosis

Physiologists define acidosis, or acid intoxication, as a condition in which the blood and tissue contain an excess of acid other than carbonic acid.

Short Canal-Boat History

The first canal boats were for freight only and provided quarters merely for the captain and crew. But the demand for passenger accommodations brought canal boats with two cabins, one at the bow and one at the stern, with cargo hatches underneath, the forward cabin for women and the after cabin for men. Within a few years passenger traffic became so heavy freight was carried entirely on freight or cargo boats while fast expresses were operated for passengers alone. The boats were drawn by two or three horses, which followed a towpath along the bank. The express boats averaged about four miles an hour.

Earth's Movements

The earth moves 1,100 miles a minute at a distance of 93,000,000 miles from the sun, in a path of 600,000,000 miles.

legation. The group posed for this picture just before leaving the naval air station here by plane for Savannah, Ga., where they will attend services conducted on the 150th anniversary of the death of General Pulaski, noted Polish patriot.

Smart Six-Year Old

When almost six years of age Benjamin Blythe, who afterward became a noted Scottish engineer, was walking with his father when the child asked, "Papa, at what hour was I born?" He was told 4 a. m. and he then asked "What o'clock is it now?" He was told 7:50 a. m. The boy walked on a few hundred yards, then turned to his father and stated the number of seconds he had lived—which upon calculation turned out correct, even allowing for two leap years.—Grit.

Mark of Gentleman

We are just men and women dealing with just ordinary human beings like ourselves. Let's treat them just like we would want them to treat us. Consideration for others is the distinguishing trait of the gentleman.—P. S. Arkwright.

Wisdom From Franklin

Idleness and pride tax with a heavier hand than kings and parliaments. If we can get rid of the former, we may easier bear the latter.—Benjamin Franklin (1790). "Letter on the Stamp Act."

Book's Slow Progress

German professors are writing a book that will take 750 years to complete at the present rate of progress. It is the great standard encyclopedia of the animal kingdom.

First Chilean Newspaper

In 1811 a printing press was sent from New York to Valparaiso. It was set up and managed by three Americans who went with it and furnished Chile with its first newspaper.

Moon Superstition

The term "moon magic" refers to the magical effect the moon is supposed by superstitious people to have on human affairs, especially in the ways of love and romance.

ENERGY — TIME — DISTANCE With The Speed of Light

Faster than the fastest express train—quicker than a racing automobile—speedier than a racing aeroplane making six miles a minute—traveling with the speed of light—IT IS THE TELEPHONE.

Nothing else—either produced by Nature or Man travels so fast—except light.

Time and distance are annihilated—hundreds of miles become a matter of seconds. Were a direct wire hook-up around the world practical, one could hear his own voice returning from the 25,000 mile journey—even as words were being spoken in the transmitter.

THIS IS THE TELEPHONE—LEVELER OF DISTANCE AND SAVIOR OF ENERGY.

It is the greatest utility in use today. Without the telephone this locality and others would be back in the slow dark ages of the post-civil war days.

Business would take weeks instead of minutes for the transaction of small matters. The speed and comfort of present day living would be unknown.

All social and business contracts would have to be made in person at a great loss of time and energy. Possible calls in the course of a day would be reduced from hundreds to tens.

One cannot conceive and one does not want to think of life today without the advantages of the telephone.

In order that this community might have adequate communication service this company has invested more than a half million dollars in establishing an up-to-date plant and system to take care of the growing needs of the locality. Yet this huge investment is yours to use as you will for a low monthly rental as small as $2.05 a month.

For this moderate charge you have the unlimited use of your telephone. For seven and one-half cents a day you can make a hundred calls a day if you wish.

The telephone cannot be expensive when it offers such a saving in time, energy and distance.

CRIST EXPECTS PRECEDENT IN FRUIT DISPLAY

One Man Promises Mammoth Exhibit of Pumpkins and Squashes To Brehmer.

J. Wallace Crist, a new man in Pumpkin Show circles, was appointed by the Pumpkin Show society to fill the vacancy left by H. J. Sweyer, who has accepted a position as a traveling salesman with a shoe company, says that even though he has never had anything to do with the real making of the Pumpkin Show he feels sure that his department will be bigger and better than in previous years.

Mr. Crist is in charge of the fruit, grain, and vegetable displays. C. M. Leist has been appointed by the Pumpkin Show secretary to act as chairman of the corn display to replace Ira Carpenter. No changes have been made in this display and it will be located in front of the Circleville Produce Co. Prizes will be awarded for the different varieties in White, Yellow and Popcorn. A prize will also be given for the heaviest ear of corn, the longest ear of corn and the tallest corn stalk. All entries must be made on or before Thursday.

BIGGER EXHIBITS
R. L. Brehmer, chairman of the pumpkin and squash exhibits, expects a bigger exhibit because he has already been promised that no man will fill both sides of N. Court-st. This is quite confidential and Mr. Brehmer feels sure that everything this party says he means. Prizes will be given for the best display of pumpkins, the largest pumpkin, the largest squash and the largest crook neck squash. Prizes of $10, $5, $3 and $2 will be given for the most unusual freak pumpkin, squash or vegetable. The winner of the best display of Pumpkins will receive a prize of $50.

James Swearingen is chairman of the fruit display and he has promised also, being confident that he will have more entries this year than he has ever had. Prizes will be awarded for the best Rome Beauty, Baldwin, Bannana, Red, Delicious, King David, Stayman Winesap, Arkansas Black, and many others.

Prizes will be awarded for the best white and yellow peaches. Awards will also be made for the best Black, Red and White grapes. Prizes for the best Plums and Quinces will also be awarded. A $5 will be awarded for the best display of fruits grown by the exhibitor. The exhibit will be held on the south side of Crist Department store.

MANY ENTRIES
Fred B. Brunner is in charge of the vegetable display and he, like many of the others, is expecting a bigger and better exhibit. Prizes will be awarded for the best different varieties of Potatoes, Turnips, Onions, Parsnips, Cucumbers, Cabbage, Celery, Radishes, Beets, Peppers, Tomatoes and Beans. Many residents of the county are expected to enter this vegetable display and the decision of the judges will be conducted as fairly and impartial as possible. Mr. Brunner will receive entries Thursday. The exhibit will be conducted in the front of the Brunner Jewelry shop.

World's Most Famous Artists Scheduled for America's Radio Audience This Fall and Winter—Many New Names

The radio listener is to hear the greatest musical artists of the world over his radio this season, according to advance announcement of the outstanding radio recitals to be broadcast over networks that will reach every part of the United States. Rosa Ponselle, famed prima donna soprano of the Metropolitan Opera, has been announced as the first of the famous opera singers to open the biggest season in radio history. She will introduce the fall and winter season of Atwater Kent Sunday night concerts, broadcast at nine-fifteen, eastern standard time, each week. Other internationally known vocalists and instrumentalists who will broadcast in this series include such well known artists as Reinald Werrenrath, baritone; Maria Kurenko, soprano; Louise Homer, contralto; Lester Donahue, pianist; Frances Alda, soprano; Kathryn Meisle, contralto; Toscha Seidel, violinist; Armand Tokaty, tenor; Beatrice Harrison, cellist; Everett Marshall, baritone; Aida Doninelli, soprano; Albert Spalding, violinist; Marie Mueller, soprano; Martha Atwood, soprano; John Charles Thomas, baritone; Maria Olszewska, contralto, and others equally famous who have never broadcast before. All of these musicians will broadcast in the Atwater Kent Radio Hour which has the greatest following of any of the outstanding radio concerts, and is generally conceded to have raised broadcasting to new heights. This is the fifth season for this premier series of the air, which last summer passed its two hundredth concert, having presented more than 125 artists in radio recital—the longest series of regularly broadcast entertainment on record.

H. Monroe Morris is chairman of the Small Grain display consisting of Wheat, Oats, Clover Seed, Timothy Seed and Soy Beans. Three prizes will be awarded for each entry. The exhibit will be held in front of the Morris Hardware store. Mr. Morris expects big entries this year because of the unusually big grain crop.

Couesism Among Finns

The ancient Finns, when troubled by the hiccoughs, sought relief by addressing the hiccoughs as follows: "Go hiccough, to a clump of limes; I'll come to strip the bark; go, hiccough, to a clump of birch; I'll come to strip the bark." This was repeated over and over again—or was supposed to be repeated—until the hiccoughs became discouraged and took their departure. Gout, when making an attack, was greeted in this wise—"Good gout thou lovely gout, depart, turn back elsewhere."—Gus Logie.

Shattered Adage

It must have been the village idiot who invented the adage, "Don't judge others by yourself." One's self is the only person on earth by whom one can possibly judge others.—American Magazine.

Romantic Love Is on the Wane

There will always be soul chemistry holding a particular man and woman together long after surface attractions have been outworn. The great trouble with the Victorians was that they often defied the surface attractions, and thought because they were thrilling to brown eyes that they were drawing close to a kindred soul. They revered thrills so highly, too, that our grandmothers believed romantic love would settle automatically all life's problems. If we moderns adopt a more challenging attitude toward the thrill and if we acknowledge that no other human being, no matter how close, can solve life for us we are that much nearer to saying, "The Kingdom of God is within."—Corinne Lowe in Pictorial Review.

Dutch Woman's Costume

"Colorful and Ample"

The costumes of rural Holland are indeed unique. Women wear six or more skirts, test the form be modestly displayed, and a brightly-colored waist with elbow sleeves for strong, red arms are admired by men. The climax is a lace cape, the shape of which distinguishes the province in which the wearer lives.

Wives of rich farmers wear gold casques, like helmets, with ornamental gold curls. An ancient dame told us that hers cost a hundred guilders (about $40).

Workingmen wear exceedingly broad trousers, oftentimes colored vests and short coats. Children and the poor wear klompen—wooden shoes. If you hear what sounds like a troop of cavalry passing down the street, it will more than likely turn out to be a group of school children returning home. Concealed weapons are not needed in Holland. In case of a row, a lad flicks off his klomp and wallops his adversary over the head. It has great weight in settling an argument. — National Geographic Magazine.

Tit for Tat

She could keep her secret no longer.

"Denest," she exclaimed to her husband, "I can't wait until your birthday to tell you what I've bought you for a present. . . I've got you a new rug to put in front of my dressing table and a bronze statuette for the drawing-room mantelpiece!" And then she added: "Now, what are you going to get me?"

"Well," he replied, contemptuously, "I think I shall get you a new razor and some ties."

Most Powerful Stimulant

Love is of all stimulants the most powerful. It sharpens the wits like danger, and the memory like hatred; it spurs the will like ambition; it intoxicates like wine. —A. Edwards.

And the Rest Honking

If all automobiles in the world were placed end to end, the fellow in the front car would probably be waiting to figure out a left turn as usual.—Terre Haute Tribune.

Marvelous Emerald

An emerald as large as an orange was one of the wonders that the Spanish adventurers found in an Indian village when they came to Colombia in the sixteenth century.

There are no wild buffaloes to be found except in the big game refuges, such as Yellowstone National park.

Gigantic Statue

Michelangelo's statue "David" was executed near the Cathedral square, Florence. To move it to the Piazza della Signoria, its present site, approximately 40 men were employed for four days.

Bread, Cake, Butter, Jellies, Fruits And Candy Displays To Be Best Yet

All Display Chairmen Working To Make Booths Attractive To Visitors.

Another confident director of the Pumpkin Show is C. K. Howard who will manage the bake products, candy and butter displays. This display always has attracted lots of attention and this year will probably not be an exception, as all the chairmen of the different sections have lots of hope and promises that these displays will be bigger and better than ever.

BREAD DISPLAY

Edward Wittich is chairman of the bread display and he is one of the directors who is so confident as he has had many promises for a big display. The display will be conducted on the south side of Main-st along Colwell's Clothing store as in previous years. Prizes will be awarded for the best loaf of white bread, graham bread, nut bread, white rolls, biscuits, coffee cake, rusks and ginger bread. The prizes will be: First $1.50, second, $1; third, 50c. These will be given in each separate display. All bakers are urged by Chairman Wittich to try their skill this year.

Mack Parrett, Jr., is chairman of the cake display and he undoubtedly like others, is very confident that he will also have a record breaking display. The contestants for this show have always contributed generously and the same is hoped for this year. Prizes will be awarded for the best—Chocolate layer, Coconut layer, Caramel Iced layer, Angel Food, plain, Devil's Food and Fruit cakes, and the best plate of plain and nut cookies.

Prizes will be first, $2, second, $1.50 and third, $1 in each display.

BUTTER SHOW

Barrere & Nickerson have charge of the butter display and this should generally interest the women farmers of Pickaway-co. When the day comes to churn why not make a little more than you usually make and exhibit it at the Pumpkin Show. Last year many different designs were displayed and created quite a lot of curiosity and attention. The chairman urges every one to make an entry.

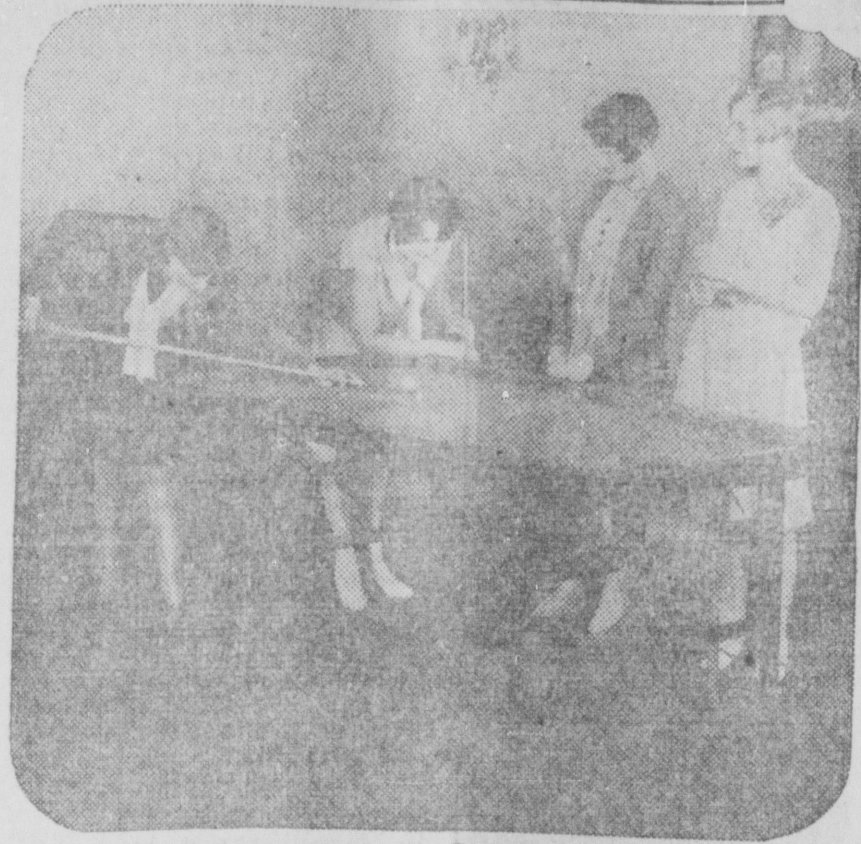

H. B. Colwell is chairman of the jelly, fruits and vegetable displays. These deal with canned products. CVB Chiffon-variety W.L.E.ies Each year the entries in this department grow larger and larger as the people gradually learn how to help make the show better. Prizes of first, $2, second, $1.50, third, $1 and fourth, 50c, will be awarded for the best display of jellies; the most attractive display of fruits; and the most attractive display of vegetables. This contest is worth entering.

Another prize awarding contest is the making of home made candies. Henry Joseph is chairman of this display and all entries must be sent to him. All the candies must be manufactured by the contestant and must be home-made. After the prizes have been awarded the candy will be transported to the Children's Home where the kiddies there will have a feast over the sweets. Prizes will be awarded for the best pound of plain Fudge, Nut Fudge, Taffy, Cream Candy and Divinity. The prizes will be first, $3, second, $2, third, $1 and fourth 50c.

The entire population of Pickaway-co is cordially invited and is urged to enter as many of these contests as possible so as to let the visitors of other counties and states know that Pickaway-co has a bunch of people in their community who are out heart and soul to boost the big 26th Annual Pumpkin Show.

PIGSKINS IS PIGSKINS—BUT BILLIARDS HAS ITS ANGLES

Pigskins is pigskins—but the grand old game will have to look to its laurels!

The time may come when garrulous old co-eds of the class of 1930 will get together in reunions and talk about the good old days when they "held 'em on the first ball!" in an intercollegiate billiards classic.

Now pocket billiards is part of every well-regulated education for women. And don't ever let anyone tell you the girls aren't learning the arts of higher education in the game. They must know their angles and curves, their laws of probability and averages.

Since pocket billiards became the after-dinner sport of co-eds, they shoot from the hip and they shoot to win!

Here's the only sport-world as yet unconquered by women—and it won't be long now from the looks of things. The field has already been invaded by one champion, Miss Lola Schrier, of Holland, Europe's greatest woman billiardist.

The well-known "woman's slant" on billiards is perfect. It should equal if not surpass man's—on the authority of an expert, R. E. Kennedy, assistant general sales manager for the Brunswick-Balke-Clender Co.

"In a world of sports where women have captured championship honors on the English channel, the Olympia track, the turf, and at the net, the only thing left for them is to become champions of the royal game of billiards."

Silent, Inside Growth

Everyone must know that his best life is his silent life; his truest growth, his silent growth. What I am, what is my life, myself, is inside; and inside is all the work done that fashions me. The soul is not made as the statue is, with clack of hammer and chip of chisel from without; but the soul is made of its own in-growth, as a peach is.—Exchange.

Notice to the public

SUPPOSE you are today paying 50c a tube for your tooth paste (and there are many very good dentifrices selling today at that price).

Suppose, like most people, you buy about twelve tubes during a year. Now if you knew that you could buy as good a dentifrice as can be made and still save each year the price of 25 loaves of bread or 60 bars of soap or 40 pounds of sugar or a box of fine cigars—could you conscientiously fail to take advantage of such an opportunity?

That is exactly what you do when you buy Listerine Tooth Paste at 25c for a large tube. Figure it out for yourself.

Denotes Burial Place

The word "columbrum" is derived from the Latin word "columba," meaning a dove. The word was originally applied to rows of niches in the walls of sepulchral chambers in Roman burial places from their fancied resemblance to the dove-cote. Eventually the name was applied to the chamber itself; hence its use at the present time.

CONSIDER

the men behind the bank

The foundations of a bank are more than metal and money; glass and gold. They are human too. The personnel of a Bank is the truest criterion of its merit—the surest basis of judgment. The officers of this Bank are all men who have watched the commercial development of this community—men who are keenly alert to opportunities—who are ever ready to lend the helping hand to any project that bids fair to augment further the community's prosperity.

THAT is why our Bank stands back of so many local business enterprises.

THAT is why we will give close attention to your ideas on business development and expansion.

Rural, Urban Residents of County Renew Acquaintances at Fall Show

Farm Bureau Sections To Be Centers of Much Interest Next Week.

Rural and Urban Pickaway countyans meet during the Pumpkin Show, Circleville, Oct. 16th-19th. Old acquaintances are renewed, new friendships are made and everyone enjoys the opportunity to view and study the exhibits of the field and home.

The 4-H Club members are completing their projects with an exhibit at the show. The 4-H Clothing Club comprising an exhibit of 350 articles will be on display on E. Franklin-st, next door west of the Post Office.

The 4-H Food Club, which has prepared 70 attractive posters and cakes, will be displayed in the show cases on W. Main-st in front of Colwell's.

The 4-H Livestock and Crops members whose exhibits are comprised of corn, poultry, calves and pigs are located as follows: Poultry, S. Court-st in front of the Court House; Corn, W. Main-st, with open class Corn Show; Pig, and Calf at the Club tent on E. High-st.

The Farm Bureau has prepared an educational exhibit which will be located in front of the Farm Bureau home on E. Main-st. Alfalfa, its place in the rotation, methods of seeding, soil requirements and harvesting the crop will be depicted through the Farm Bureau exhibit.

Attractive Desserts, how they are prepared, their place in the menu, is the theme of an exhibit prepared by the Nutrition leaders of the County Farm Bureau.

The Vocational Agricultural Departments of Walnut, Jackson, Pickaway and Salter Creek Townships will exhibit their projects in the Farm Bureau tent. Poultry parasites and diseases commonly found in farm flocks comprise an Education in America

Compulsory education in the United States occurred first in Massachusetts. As far back as 1642 the selectmen were enjoined to compel parents to teach their children themselves or to procure teaching for them. The following list shows the dates at which the several states enacted compulsory education legislation: Massachusetts, 1852; District of Columbia, 1864; Vermont, 1867; New Hampshire, Michigan, Washington, 1871; Connecticut, New Mexico, 1872; Nevada, 1873; New York, Kansas, California, 1874; Maine, New Jersey, 1875; Wyoming, 1876; Ohio, 1877; Wisconsin, 1879; Rhode Island, Illinois, the Dakotas, Montana, 1883; Minnesota, Nebraska, Idaho, Colorado, Oregon, Utah, 1885-1890; by 1908 almost all states.

EX-BOY EMPEROR IS BROKE; COTTAGE HIS CASTLE NOW

Lives on Charity of His Friends; Last $250,000 Lost in Bank Crash.

Peking, China.—The "boy emperor," once the ruler of all China, has moved into a small house in Tientsin with his wife, because he can no longer afford to live in a large house.

With his fortune almost gone, the former emperor now is dependent for support on the kindness of his old Manchurian retainers. But they, too, are suffering from falling incomes, and are not able to spare him enough to keep up anything resembling an imperial menage.

The boy emperor, now approaching the age of thirty, is not prepared to do anything to earn his living. He is not ambitious, and his friends say he has no hope whatever of recovering his lost power. He is content to live quietly with his two women and a few Manchus who have remained with him since his abdication.

When the emperor abdicated an agreement was made to leave him possessor of his landed property and a large part of his jewels and curios. But succeeding so-called Republican governments have ruled against this agreement, and the ex-emperor's property gradually has been confiscated and sold. It is said that all of his income from property now has been cut off.

The young ex-emperor also made an unfortunate investment. He put $250,000, almost all of his ready money, into the Exchange Bank of China, a joint Japanese-Chinese institution. A few months ago this bank failed because of the deterioration in value of its investments in Chinese government bonds. The young emperor's money was lost together with that of thousands of other unfortunate Chinese depositors.

The ex-emperor has been living for the last two years in the Chang-yun garden in Tientsin, located in the Japanese concession. Although the rent was given him free by the Japanese commander in charge of Tientsin, the place was so large that he had to keep more than 100 servants and other expenses were in proportion.

Seeing the young man's plight, an old Chinese, Lu Changyu, offered him the use of one of his houses, also in the Japanese concession, and the ex-emperor decided at once to move with his household.

Sports Prints Craze Creates Bull Market

London, England.—New York and London's mad clamor for old sporting prints and sporting relics of all descriptions has created a bull market here for pictures that a few years ago would sell for a couple of dollars.

It is estimated that more than $300,000 worth of sporting prints were sold in London auction rooms alone during the last few months. This figure does not include a large number of private sales.

The record price for the season is said to be $75,000, paid by an American for a George Stubbs "Eclipse," which was in the private collection of the late Sir Walter Gilbey. Some years ago this famous race-horse picture sold for $3,675.

The origin of the craze for sporting pictures is traced to Lord Woolvington's collection.

Snakes in Alfalfa Bring $100 Profit

Delphi, Calif.—G. B. Jackson, farmer, planted five gopher snakes in an eight acre alfalfa patch and profited about $20 for each snake at one cutting of hay, he told friends here.

Jackson rented the alfalfa field, which was dying from onslaughts of gophers. He went hunting snakes and captured a quintet of the gopher-consuming variety and carefully transplanted them to his rented field. One cutting of hay produced 20 tons, valued at $14 a ton, for a total of $280, Jackson showed.

Portuguese Are Allowed Only Dark Brown Bread

Lisbon.—Though nobody can explain the reason, only one type of bread is to be sold in Portugal. With the world's supply of wheat so large and with the price at the present level, it has been decreed that the bread-makers all over the country shall produce a uniform type. There is general complaint. The importation of wheat and the price at which bread is sold is regulated by the authorities. The bread at present being sold is of a dark brown color and white bread has disappeared from the market.

Bull Wins Argument in Battle With Auto

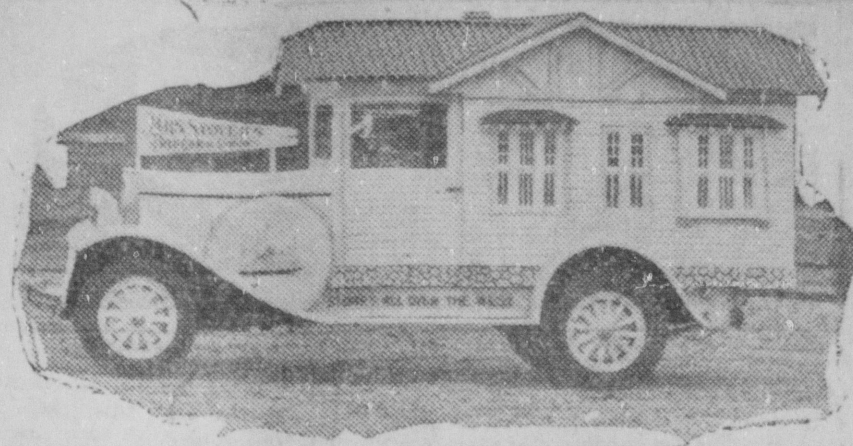

Longmont, Colo.—When an automobile and a bull dispute the right of way at a crossroad, the bull wins. At least, Mrs. W. E. Hilmyer, prominent Longmont resident, found it that way. Driving along a country road, Mrs. Hilmyer endeavored to scare a bull from the road by tooting the horn. The bull, however, disputed the car's right to molest him. The bull charged and the car was slow on the retreat. One headlight, a fender and bumper were the sufferers.

Rabbit-Footed Cat Dines on Alfalfa

Kansas City, Kan.—Carl Harwig has a cat with a rabbit's foot. The animal, whose head and forequarters are those of a cotton-tail, drinks milk and eats alfalfa, Harwig alleges. The freak can squeal like a rabbit or meow like a cat. It hops with its rear legs.

PARADES WILL FEATURE BIG CELEBRATION

George M. Fitzpatrick Plans Processions Which Will Set New Records.

Probably the greatest attraction at Pumpkin Show will be the parades. These parades also have been real shows and undoubtedly will live up to the same reputation this year. There will be five parades this year namely: Industrial, Automobile, Baby, Comic and Character and the Pet parade. George M. Fitzpatrick is director of this department and announces that there are no changes this year other than the Industrial parade will take the place of the magnificent school parade held last year.

R. P. (Press) Enderlin has been made chairman of this parade and says that the entries are piling in thick and fast. This parade will be a representation of the industrial, commercial and agriculture interests of the county.

Prizes will be awarded the most appropriate display as follows: First prize, $100; second prize, $75; third prize, $50; and fourth $25. This parade will be held Friday and Saturday afternoons on the important streets of the city and will take place at 3 o'clock. "Press" Enderlin urges every business resident of the county to get out and make this parade one of the biggest features of the show. Mr. Enderlin is also chairman of the Automobile parade which will also take place on Friday and Saturday afternoon. To be eligible for the prize contestants must parade on two days of the show, Friday and Saturday.

MUST BE DECORATED

Another requirement is that all machines or floats must be decorated to be eligible. The prizes for the Automobile parade are the same as for the Industrial parade. We quote Mr. Enderlin as saying, "Folks let's really make this a big attraction at the show."

As usual another big attraction is the Baby parade under the chairmanship of Mary G. Morris. No changes have been made in this parade and it will be the same as last year. Prizes will be awarded for the best—artistic decorated baby buggy, novelty outfit with child in charge, play outfit with girl in charge, prettiest colored and white twins under different years and many other prizes. The parade will take place on Thursday afternoon, Oct. 17th at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Morris urges all residents of the county to enter. Undoubtedly the most outstanding parade of the show will be the comic and characterization parade which will take place Friday, Oct. 18th at 7:30 p. m.

This parade always has been the big hit of the show and offers real entertainment and amusement for young and old. Mrs. J. C. Rader is chairman of this parade and all entries are to be sent to her at her home on S. Washington-st or telephone 607. In the comic parade masks must be used while in the characterization masks may not be used and some special character may be represented. Prizes of first, $10; second, $7.50; third, $5 and fourth, $2.50 will be awarded for the best contestants in both parades.

PET PARADE SATURDAY

Mrs. Rader urges that every resident of Pickaway-co help make this parade bigger and better than ever by entering. Don't forget to call 607 when you wish to enter.

Another parade which attracts lots of attention is the Pet parade held on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Proctor Baughman is chairman of this parade and all entries must be sent to him. This parade is open to all boys and girls of the county under 12 years of age.

American Made Planes Carry First Chinese Air Mail

TAKE-OFF OF STINSON-DETROITER AIR MAIL PLANE FROM SHANGHAI

FIRST DELIVERY OF CHINESE AIR MAIL

FIRST CHINESE AIR MAIL POST OFFICE

WAYNE, MICH.—First air mail route in China is now in regular service.

Four 300-horsepower standard Stinson-Detrouter six passenger planes shipped to the Chinese National Government by the Stinson Aircraft Corporation here are being operated over the new Chinese line.

Shanghai to Hankow via Nanking is the first regular daily air line which the planes cover. The service will be extended as rapidly as possible to Hong Kong, according to K. Nieh, Minister of Communications of the Chinese Nationalist Government at Nanking.

Passengers are being carried as well as mail. The planes are the latest Stinson model with luxurious cabin accommodations, baggage compartments, and washrooms. Flying fields and beacons have been rushed to completion at the airports which eventually will have modern facilities of restaurants and waiting rooms as well as up-to-date hangars.

American pilots assigned by the Stinson Aircraft Corporation to inaugurate the Chinese National Air Mail and Passenger Service are Jerome Machle, military flying instructor at Selfridge Field during the World War, and Capt. W. R. Henderson, former flight officer with the Royal Flying Corps. Mr. Machle was one of the pilots who took a flight of six Stinson-Detrouter to Mexico early this year to establish the first Mexican government air mail service. Native flyers are being instructed by the American aviators. These have been selected from the cream of Chinese youth, who have exerted every possible influence of wealth and family prestige to obtain the coveted opportunity, and many of whom expect to purchase planes for their own use after they have completed training.

PARIS DESIGNERS Open New Vistas of Flattering Individuality in AUTUMN MILLINERY

"Up and down" is the invariable rule in autumn millinery—achieved by Paris designers—by a tricky flaring front—a slash that turns a brim down at sides and back—a subtle drap or some skillful fabric manipulation. The result?—flattery undreamed of—individuality—youthful charm.

You'll like the new millinery fashions designed for afternoon and evening wear. Now on Display.

Chocolate Ancient Beverage

Chocolate was a favored drink on this continent long before the arrival of the white man. It was extensively used by the Aztecs and before them the Toltecs. A Florentine who had resided in the West Indies finally introduced chocolate into Italy, whence its use gradually spread through Europe, though not without opposition. Its introduction into Prussia was prohibited by Frederick the Great. A famous physician, Bochet, on the other hand, proclaimed cacao one of the most noble of discoveries, far more worthy to be the food of the gods than nectar and ambrosia, and Linnaeus, noted Swedish botanist, who gave cacao its scientific christening, coined a name, "Theobroma," from two Greek words, meaning "food for the gods," which remains its scientific name today.

Primitive Home Life

Rural Japanese housewives roll up their beds and store them away every morning. The Samsons have no bathtubs. They bathe daily in the cool mountain streams. Their furnishings are limited to pots and gourds. Pebbles on the bare ground replace carpets. The Egyptian peasant along the Nile lives in a clay house. His bed and chair are a ledge of earth on the side of the room. In Arabia, dinner is served in a huge pot into which the diners dip with their hands and bring forth their portion.

Composition of Water

Water is composed of two gases—oxygen and hydrogen. These are held together by a force which, if suddenly liberated, in but a drop, would produce a flash of lightning.
